EXPLANATION.—Central Time is based upon that of the 90th meridian, and is nine minutes slower than Chicago Solar Time. Eastern Time is based upon the 75th meridian, which is one hour faster than Central Time, or four minutes slower than New York City Time. Inter-colonial Time is based upon the 60th meridian, and is two hours faster than Central Time. Mountain Time is based upon the 105 meridian, and is one hour slower than Central Time. Pacific Time is based upon the 120 meridian, and is two hours slower than Central Time. The colors upon the above map represent the localities governed by the several standards of railway time.

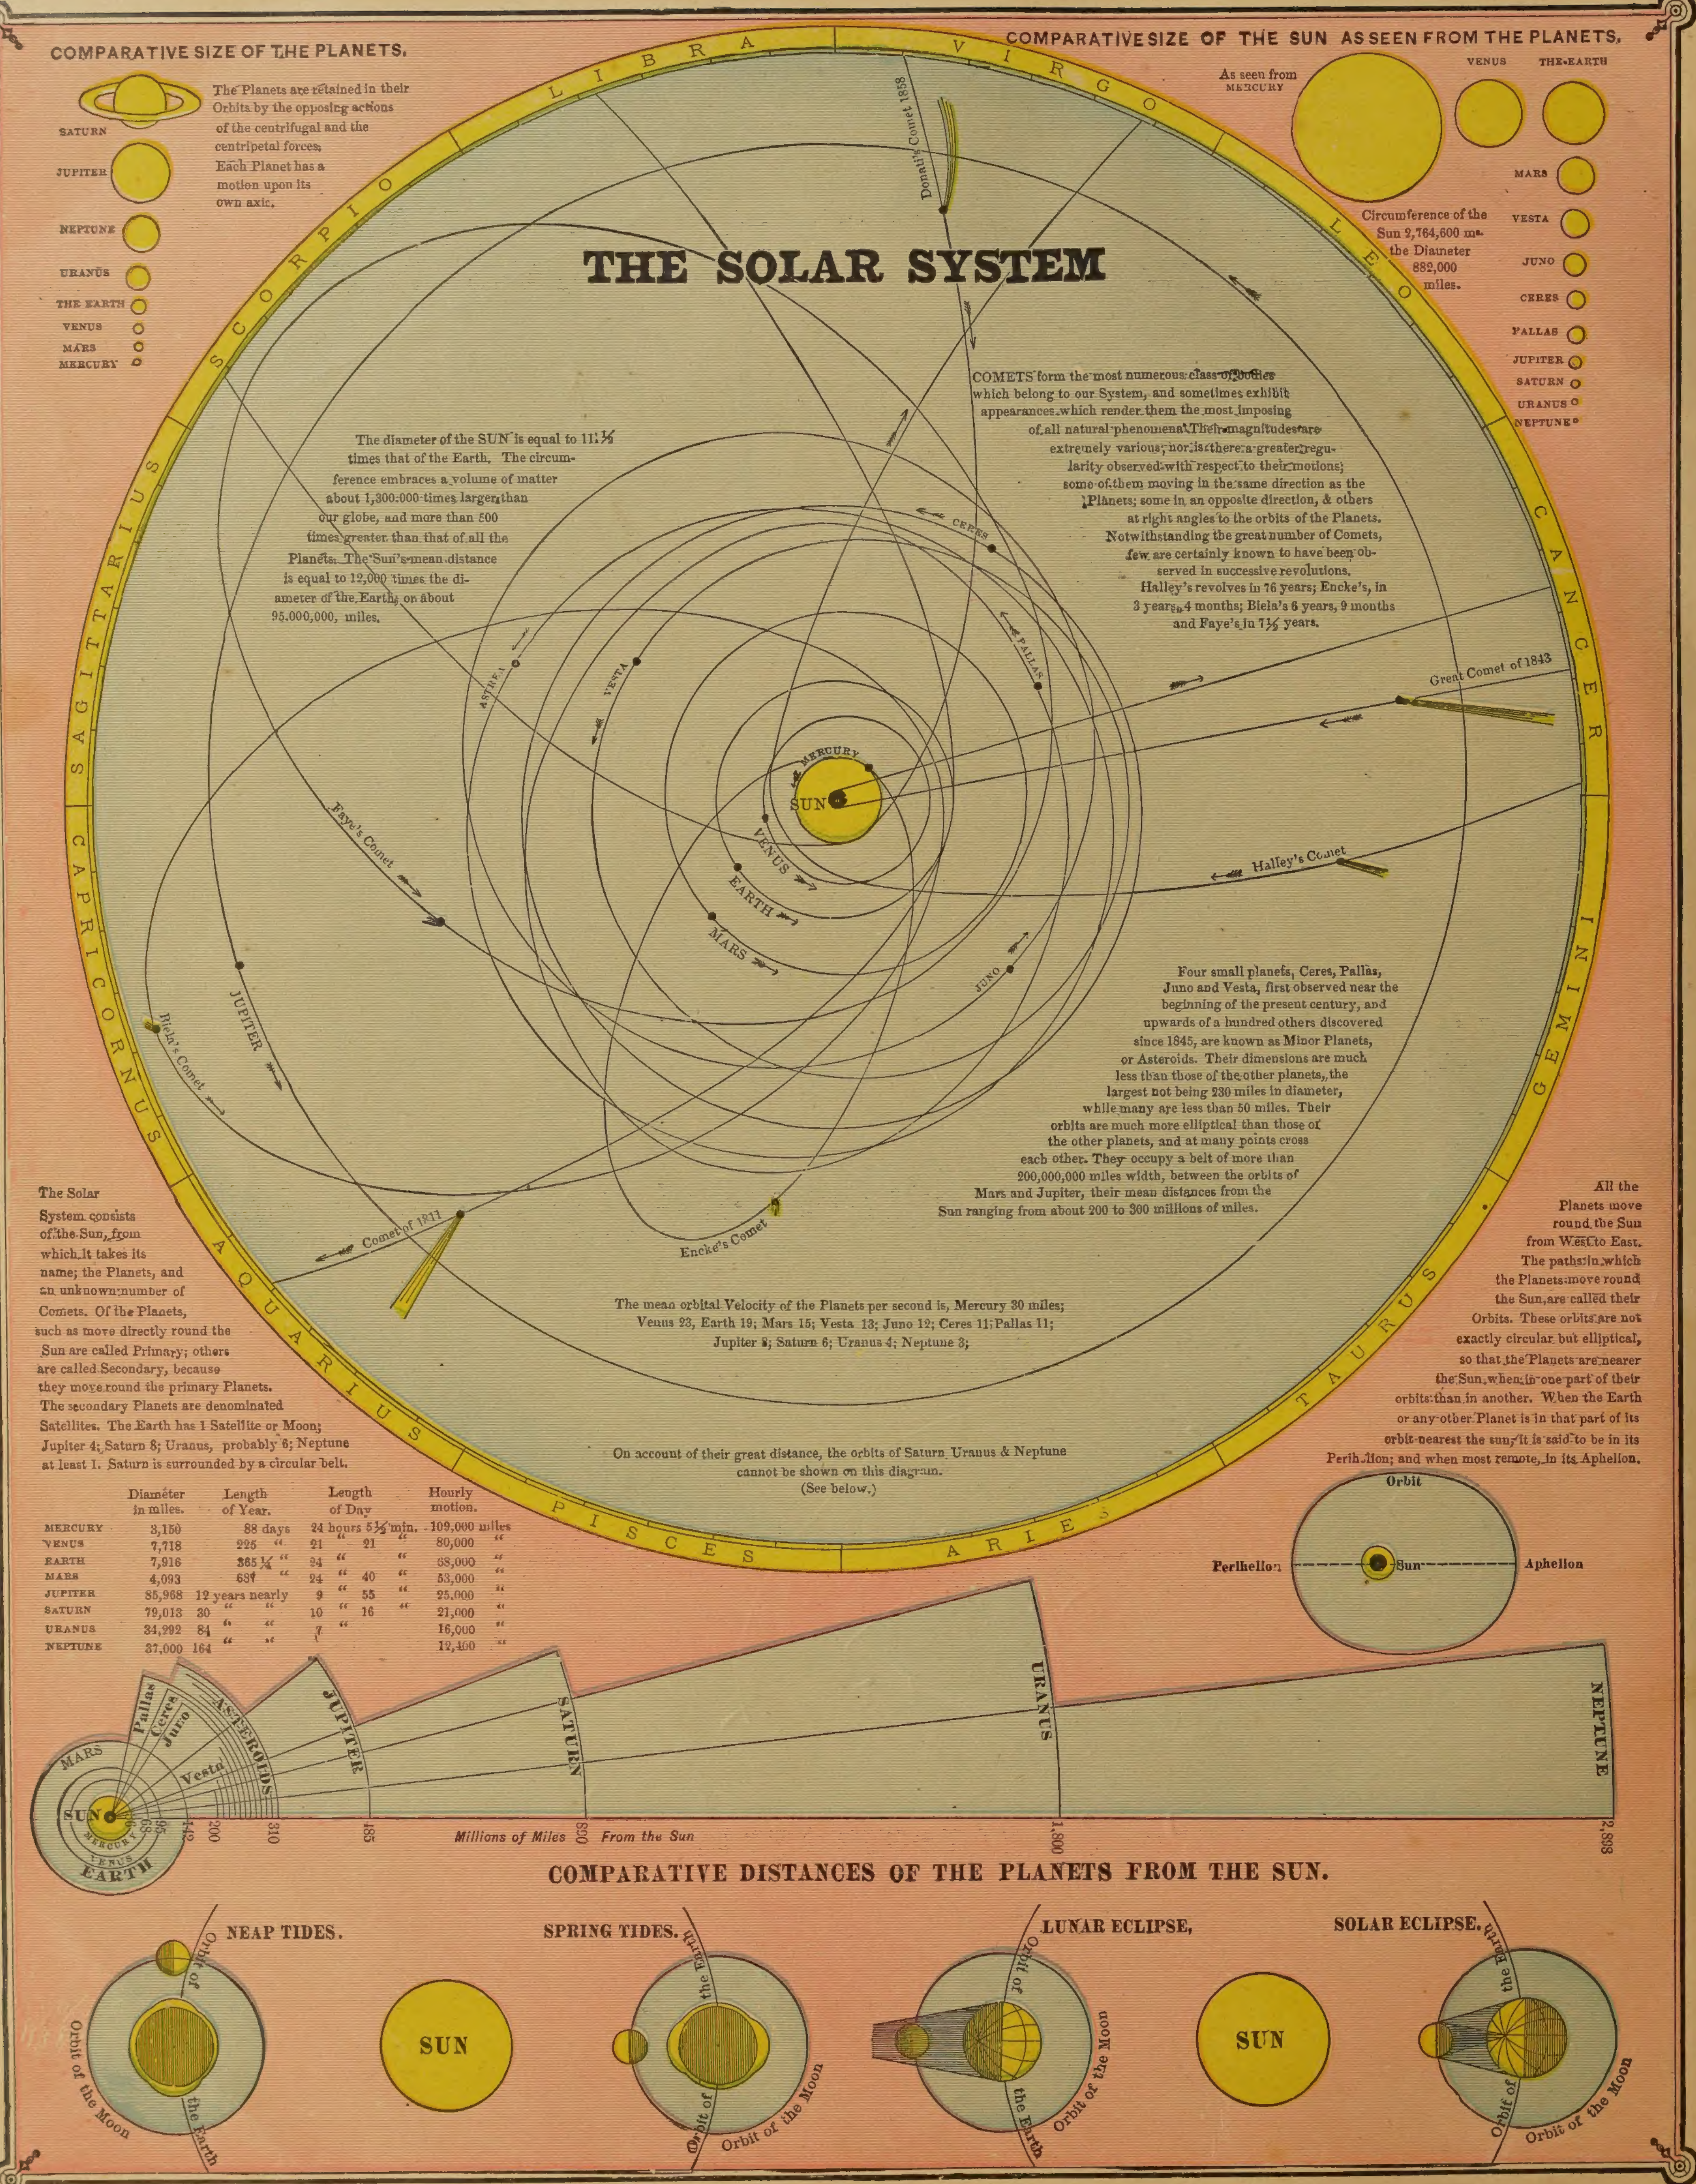
THE SOLAR SYSTEM



COMPARATIVE SIZE OF THE PLANETS.

The Planets are retained in their Orbits by the opposing actions of the centrifugal and the centripetal forces; Each Planet has a motion upon its own axis.

COMPARATIVE SIZE OF THE SUN AS SEEN FROM THE PLANETS.

As seen from MERCURY

Circumference of the Sun 2,764,600 ms. the Diameter 882,000 miles.

The diameter of the SUN is equal to 11½ times that of the Earth. The circumference embraces a volume of matter about 1,300,000 times larger than our globe, and more than 500 times greater than that of all the Planets. The Sun's mean distance is equal to 12,000 times the diameter of the Earth, or about 95,000,000, miles.

COMETS form the most numerous class of bodies which belong to our System, and sometimes exhibit appearances which render them the most imposing of all natural phenomena. Their magnitudes are extremely various; nor is there a greater regularity observed with respect to their motions; some of them moving in the same direction as the Planets; some in an opposite direction, & others at right angles to the orbits of the Planets. Notwithstanding the great number of Comets, few are certainly known to have been observed in successive revolutions. Halley's revolves in 76 years; Encke's, in 3 years, 4 months; Biela's 6 years, 9 months and Faye's in 7½ years.

Four small planets, Ceres, Pallas, Juno and Vesta, first observed near the beginning of the present century, and upwards of a hundred others discovered since 1845, are known as Minor Planets, or Asteroids. Their dimensions are much less than those of the other planets, the largest not being 230 miles in diameter, while many are less than 50 miles. Their orbits are much more elliptical than those of the other planets, and at many points cross each other. They occupy a belt of more than 200,000,000 miles width, between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, their mean distances from the Sun ranging from about 200 to 300 millions of miles.

The mean orbital Velocity of the Planets per second is, Mercury 30 miles; Venus 23, Earth 19; Mars 15; Vesta 13; Juno 12; Ceres 11; Pallas 11; Jupiter 8; Saturn 6; Uranus 4; Neptune 3;

On account of their great distance, the orbits of Saturn, Uranus & Neptune cannot be shown on this diagram.

The Solar System consists of the Sun, from which it takes its name; the Planets, and an unknown number of Comets. Of the Planets, such as move directly round the Sun are called Primary; others are called Secondary, because they move round the primary Planets. The secondary Planets are denominated Satellites. The Earth has 1 Satellite or Moon; Jupiter 4; Saturn 8; Uranus, probably 6; Neptune at least 1. Saturn is surrounded by a circular belt.

All the Planets move round the Sun from West to East. The paths in which the Planets move round the Sun, are called their Orbits. These orbits are not exactly circular but elliptical, so that the Planets are nearer the Sun, when in one part of their orbits than in another. When the Earth or any other Planet is in that part of its orbit nearest the sun, it is said to be in its Perihelion; and when most remote, in its Aphelion.

THOMAS JEFFERSON was born at Shadwell, Albemarle Co., Va., April 2, 1743. Among other distinctions, he was celebrated for having drawn up the "Declaration of Independence," in 1774. His inauguration occurred 1801, and in 1804 he was re-elected, serving two terms, 1801-1809. He died July 4, 1826.

JOHN ADAMS, Vice-President during Washington's administration, was born at Braintree, Mass., October 19, 1735. He was inaugurated in 1797, and served one term, 1797—1801. His death occurred July 4, 1826.

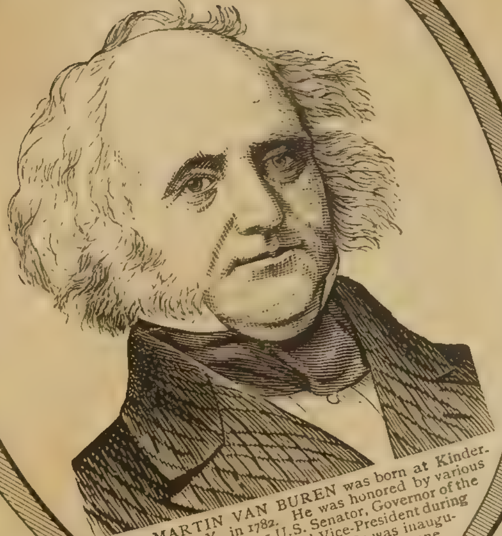
JAMES MADISON was born at King George, Va., March 16, 1751. He held the office of Secretary of State during Jefferson's administration. Was inaugurated March 4, 1809, holding the position two terms. He died at Montpelier, Va., January 28, 1836.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, first President of the United States, was born in Westmoreland Co., Va., February 22, 1732. He was termed the "Father of his Country." His inauguration took place in New York, April 30, 1789. He served two terms, 1789-97; and died December 12, 1799.

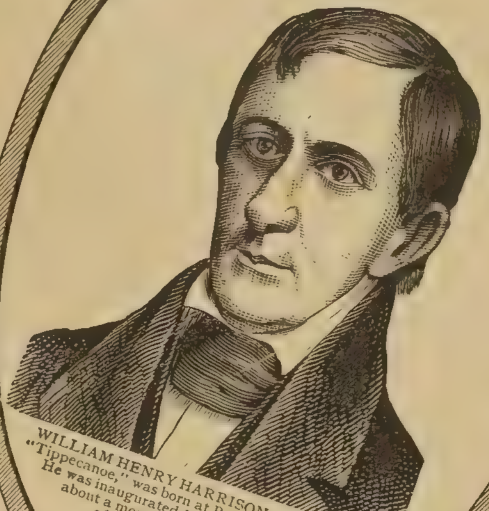
JAMES MONROE was born in Westmoreland Co., Va., April 29, 1758. Under Madison, he was Secretary of State, and also performed the duties of Secretary of War. He was inaugurated March 4, 1817, serving two terms, 1817-1825. He died July 4, 1831.

ANDREW JACKSON was born at Waxham Settlement, S. C., March 15, 1767. He was inaugurated in 1829, and served two terms, 1829-1837. His death occurred at the Hermitage, near Nashville, June 8. 1845.

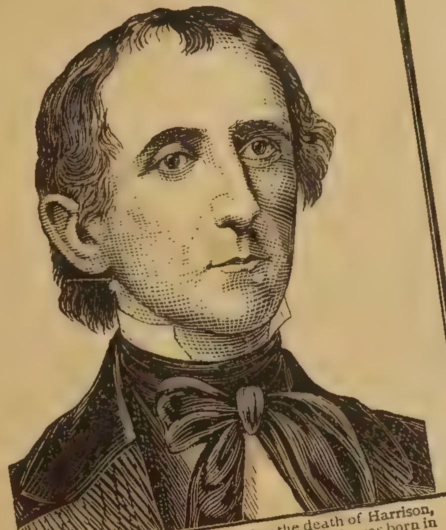
JOHN QUINCY ADAMS was born at Braintree, Mass., July, 1767. He was one of the ablest of American statesmen; Secretary of State under Monroe; elected President in 1824, inaugurated March 4, 1825, serving one term. After his term as President had expired, he was chosen as Representative of his district. He died at Washington, February 23. 1848



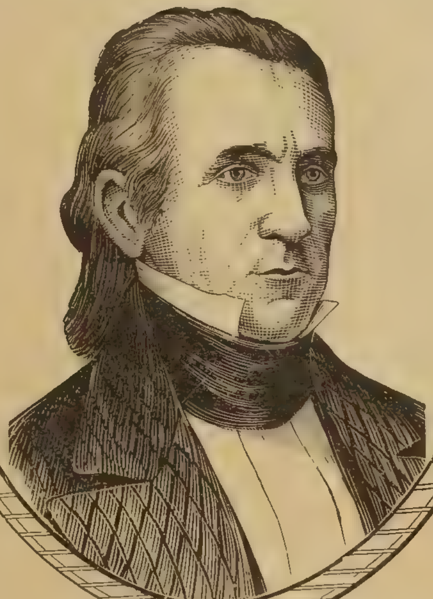
MARTIN VAN BUREN was born at Kinderhook, N. Y., in 1782. He was honored by various public positions, as U.S. Senator, Governor of the State of New York, and Vice-President during Jackson's second term. He was inaugurated March 4, 1837, serving one term. He died in 1862.



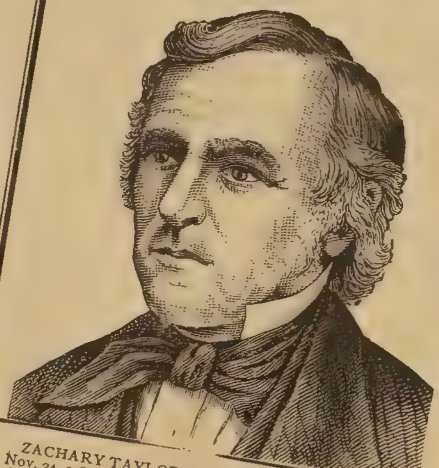
WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, the hero of "Tippecanoe," was born at Berkeley, Va., in 1773. He was inaugurated March 4, 1841, and died about a month after, the duties of his office falling upon the Vice-President, John Tyler.



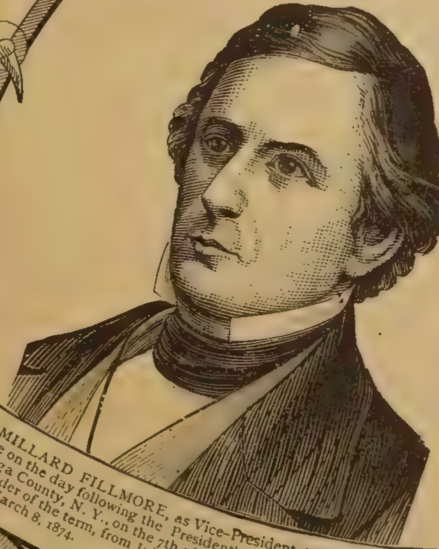
JOHN TYLER, immediately after the death of Harrison, entered upon the duties of the Presidency. He was born in Charles City Co., Va., March 29, 1790. During his administration, Texas was annexed to the Union. His term expired March 4, 1845. His death occurred at Richmond, Va., January 17, 1862.



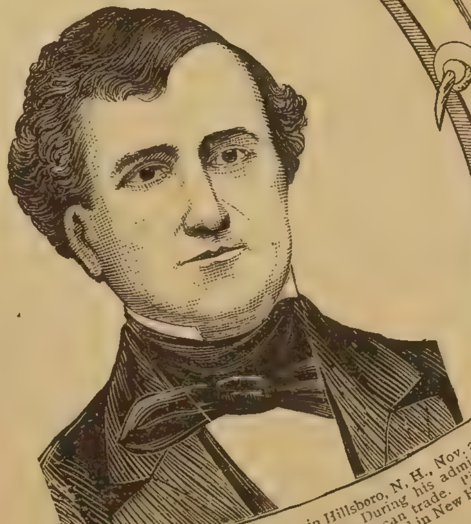
JAMES KNOX POLK was born in North Carolina, in 1795. His inauguration occurred March 4, 1845; he served one term, 1845–1849. During his administration the war with Mexico took place. He died in Tennessee, in 1849.



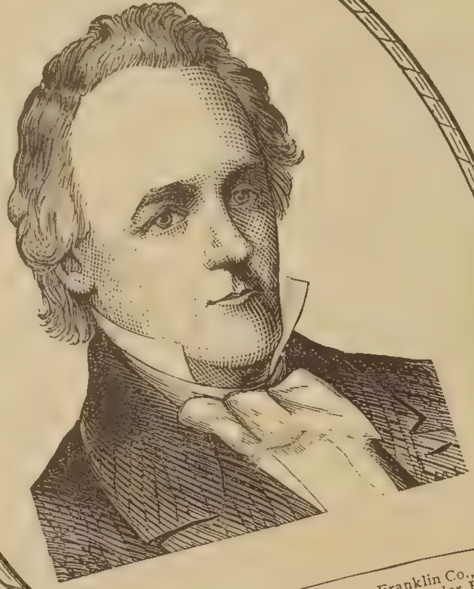
ZACHARY TAYLOR was born in Orange County, Va., Nov. 24, 1784. He won great renown as a General during the Mexican War, after which he was popularly called "Rough and Ready." He was inaugurated March 5, 1849, but died before the expiration of his term, July 9, 1850.



MILLARD FILLMORE, as Vice-President, took the oath of office on the day following the President's death. He was born in Cayuga County, N. Y., on the 7th of January, 1800. He served the remainder of the term, from July 10, 1850–1853. He died in Buffalo, N. Y., March 8, 1874.

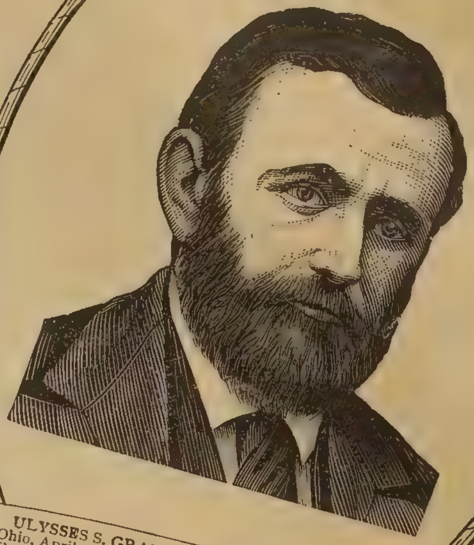


FRANKLIN PIERCE was born in Hillsboro, N. H., Nov. 23, 1804. He was inaugurated March 4, 1853. During his administration the Port of Japan was opened to American trade. Pierce served but one term, 1853–1857. His death occurred in New Hampshire, October 8, 1869.

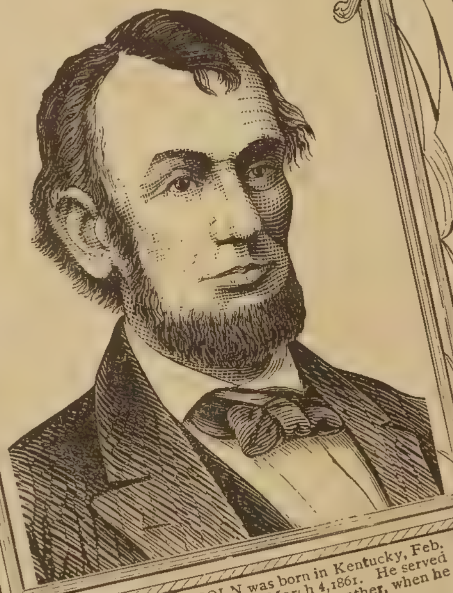


JAMES BUCHANAN was born in Franklin Co., Pa., April 13, 1791. He was Secretary of State, under Polk; was inaugurated March 4, 1857, and served one term, 1857–1861. He died in Pennsylvania, June 1, 1863.

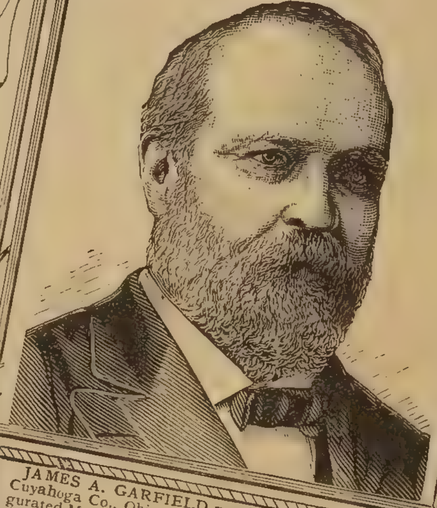
To ANDREW JOHNSON, as Vice-President, fell the duties of the President's office. He was born in North Carolina, in 1808. He served from April 15, 1865–March 1869. Died July 31, 1875.



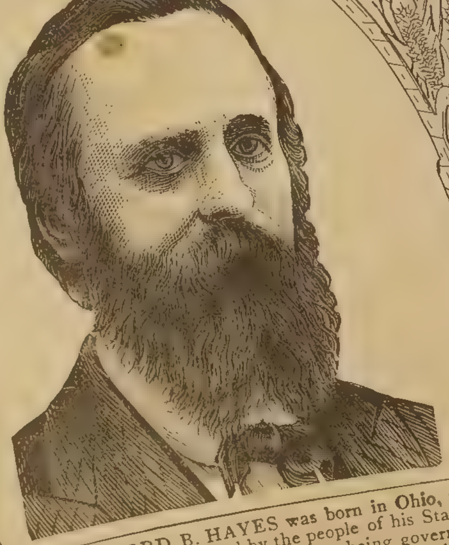
ULYSSES S. GRANT was born at Point Pleasant, Ohio, April 27, 1822. He made his record during the Great Civil War, in which he was promoted to the chief command of the Federal troops. He was inaugurated March 4, 1869, and served two terms. He died July 23d, at Mt. McGregor, New York. 1885



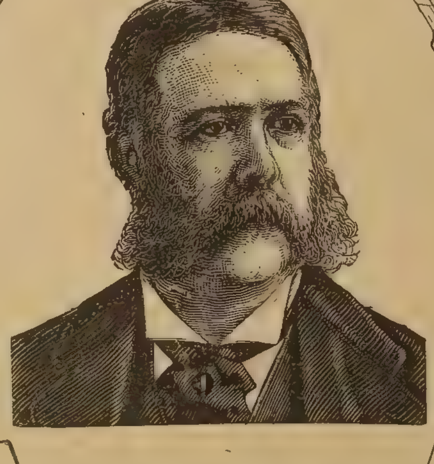
ABRAHAM LINCOLN was born in Kentucky, Feb. 12, 1809. He was inaugurated March 4, 1861. He served one term, and had just entered upon another, when he was assassinated April 15, 1865, in Washington.



JAMES A. GARFIELD was born Nov. 19, 1831, in Cuyahoga Co., Ohio, near Cleveland. He was inaugurated March 4, 1881. He was assassinated July 2, and died September 19, 1881.



RUTHERFORD B. HAYES was born in Ohio, in the year 1817. He had been honored by the people of his State a number of times, at the time of his nomination being governor of Ohio. He was inaugurated March 5, 1877. His administration was quiet. He served one term, 1877-1881.



CHESTER A. ARTHUR was born in Franklin Co., Vermont, Oct. 5, 1830. In 1856, he was admitted to the bar. He was elected Vice-President in 1880, and succeeded to the Presidency on the death of President Garfield, September 19, 1881.

KEY TO VIEW OF HOLY LAND.

No. 1--BAALBEC.

Heliopolis, or "City of the Sun," as it is sometimes called, is situated in the valley between the Lebanon and Anti-Lebanon ranges of mountains, 160 miles north of Jerusalem. The Temple was of great extent, being 500 by 900 feet on either side. A part of the main building is still standing, supported by columns of immense size and length,—some of them being 60 feet high and from four to six feet in diameter. On the top of these columns are beautiful Corinthian capitals, finely carved, equal or superior to anything found in this country. At one place amid the ruins are found six of these immense columns standing upright, not having been shaken down by the earthquake. They can be seen at a long distance.

No. 8--DAMASCUS,

Is situated 147 miles east of the Anti-Lebanon range of mountains, on the plain, surrounded by large olive groves and mulberry trees, poplars, terebinths, etc., and looks beautiful from a distance. It is called "The Gem of the East"; the "Pearl of the Orient." It is a place of 120,000 inhabitants; is surrounded by walls, and has many beautiful mosques and minarets which look picturesque and graceful, seen from a distance. The river Abana runs through the city, supplying the inhabitants with water. The river Pharpar also runs across the plain south of the city and the whole plain is thus watered, and produces abundant crops. Damascus has a history of 4,000 years. Abraham obtained his here, on his way to the Holy Land. Naaman, the leper, lived here; Benhadad, also. I. Kings, 15-18.

No. 21, BEIRUT,

Is on the coast, 147 miles from Jerusalem, and is the seaport of Damascus, the capital of Lebanon, and has 80,000 inhabitants, 12 newspapers, many common schools, 3 Female Seminaries, 1 Medical College, a Normal School, and 8 High Schools.

No. 24, SIDON,

One of the oldest cities mentioned in the Bible, is situated also on the sea, and was founded by Sidon, the son of Canaan. It is a place of 10,000 inhabitants. Around and in the suburbs of the city are immense orange groves, and tropical fruits of all kinds grow there, also.

No. 34,--DAN,

A city in the north of Palestine, 25 miles north of the Sea of Galilee, situated on a hill at the base of Mt. Hermon. There are some old ruins to be found, placed in an oval form, covering about three-quarters of an acre. From the west side of the hill flows one of the tributaries of the Jordan River. Here the golden calf was set up to worship, by Jeroboam; here the tribe of Dan lived, 149 miles north of Beersheba.

No. 55, TYRE,

Is also on the coast, and about 25 miles south of Sidon. It is built out on a peninsula or neck of land extending into the sea. It was formerly on an island, and was strongly fortified—so much so that Nebuchadnezzar laid siege to the city for a space of twelve years without success, and abandoned it; but Alexander captured it after a siege of six months, building a bridge or causeway out to the island with the ruins of the old city. It is a city of 8,000 inhabitants to-day, and a "place to spread nets upon."

No. 57,--ACCHO,

Or Ptolmais, is 8 miles north of Mt. Carmel, on the Bay of Accho, a picturesque looking city of about 8,000 inhabitants. It was so strong a city that the Israelites never completely subdued it. Viewed from the north, at a little distance off, the city appears planted with trees, and presents an attractive appearance; but within the streets are narrow and dirty. It was here that the most fearful and bloody contest of the Crusades took place, and it was the last place of any importance in which the Crusaders held out against the Saracens. Its common European name is St. Jean de Acre.

No. 102,--NAZARETH,

Is found in the picture of the Holy Land 65 miles north of Jerusalem, in a valley, amid the hills of Galilee. It is picturesquely situated, as it is surrounded on all sides by hills, with a beautiful valley opening out in front of it. It is a place of 8,000 inhabitants. It was the home of our Saviour during his childhood. The fountain from whence the inhabitance draw water is a little way out of the city. The hill of precipitation, over which the enraged Jews would have thrown the Saviour, is a little to the north-west.

No. 119, SAMARIA,

Is 30 miles, a little west of north from Jerusalem, situated on a hill that rises up out of a beautiful valley. It was once the capital of Israel, and was built by Omri, and surrounded with a wall, B. C. 925. It was rebuilt by Herod in the time of our Saviour, and many beautiful palaces erected, the columns of which stand to-day in many places, some of them 30 feet in height, with Corinthian capitals on the top. Here is found the reputed tomb of John the Baptist, covered by the ruins of the church called by his name—found on the top of the hill.

150, JERUSALEM,

The "Holy City," is situated among the mountains, 2,540 feet above the level of the Mediterranean Sea; is a city of 30,000 inhabitants of various sects and denominations—Mahommedans, Jews, Turks, Christians, &c. The city stands on the site of the old city, 80 feet above the original foundation, on Mt. Zion and Mt. Moriah. The walls of the city are from 30 to 75 feet in height and 12 feet in thickness. There are 10 gates, 5 open and 5 closed. The streets are very narrow. The prominent buildings in the city are the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Mosque of Omar, Jewish and Arminian Synagogues, Mosque of Elaksa, Church of St. Ann, Castle of Goliah, etc. Seen from the Mt. of Olives, the city looks picturesque, but it is now only a shadow of its former greatness and beauty—when it was the wonder of the world and "the joy of the whole earth."

193, BETHANY,

Is found just over the Mount of Olives, 2 miles from Jerusalem, on the road to Jericho. It is a small village, where some ancient ruins are to be found.

190, BETHLEHEM,

Is 5 miles south of Jerusalem, on a hill, and a city of 8,000 inhabitants. A large church stands over the place where tradition says that the Saviour was born. In one of the large rooms lamps are kept continually burning, and in the floor is a silver star which indicates the place, over the cave, where the shepherds are said to have found the Saviour in the manger.

208, HEBRON,

Is situated in a valley, 18 miles south of Jerusalem, and contains about 10,000 inhabitants. It was the home of Abraham, and no doubt his remains could be found to-day in the cave of Machpelah, where he was buried, and where he buried his wife Sarah.

233.--DEAD SEA,

The Dead Sea is a singular body of water, being 46 miles long and 10 miles wide, surrounded by high and rugged mountains, 2,000 and 3,000 feet in height. The water is one-quarter salt, and contains bitumen, potassium and many kinds of acid, making it unpleasant to the taste. No fish can live in it.

234.--SEA OF GALILEE,

This beautiful sea is in the northern part of the Holy Land, and is 13 miles long, 6 miles wide, and 600 feet below the Mediterranean. Ruins of the cities of Capernaum and Chorazin are found on its shores. Here the Saviour made his home, and 22 out of the 35 miracles which he wrought were performed upon or near this sea.

THE RIVER JORDAN,--g.

The River Jordan runs almost the entire length of the Holy Land, and is called the Descender. It is 1,700 feet above the Mediterranean Sea at its source, and at its mouth, where it empties into the Dead Sea, it is 1,300 feet below the Mediterranean—falling 3,000 feet in its course of 200 miles.

The exact extent of the Holy Land as given to Abraham in the original promise, and as more minutely defined in a subsequent renewal of the original charter (Num. XXIV: 1-12) is not easily determined at this distance of time, when localities of many places are lost. It is evident the Israelites did not actually possess the full extent of territory embraced in the original grant, and it is further evident that two different boundaries of the land are given in two different places. According to the above passage from Numbers, the length of the Promised Land, north and south, is about 180 miles, and its breadth, east and west, about 90 miles at the south end and about 40 miles at the northern limit. This variation is occasioned by the slope of the Mediterranean coast in a southwesterly direction.

In Genesis God said to Abraham, "Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates."

The smallness of Palestine often elicits surprise, when the number of people that inhabited it are considered and the magnitude of the events that have there transpired. It is about as large as the States of Connecticut and Rhode Island combined, and has an area of some 12,000 square miles.

The general surface of the country is mountainous, but these mountains often stand in majestic contrast with broad, flowing, fertile valleys, beautiful plains, verdant hills, or, perhaps, are spread out upon their sides and summits into rich table lands. There are many barren mountains and plains, and frightful desserts.

Moses said to the Israelites: "The land whither thou goest in to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven; a land which the Lord thy God careth for."

POLITICAL PARTIES OF THE UNITED STATES.

INTRODUCTION—PROGRESS OF THE COLONIES TO NATIONAL UNION, 1607-1789.

First Steps toward Colonial Liberty and Union, 1607-43.

1607. First permanent English settlement America, at Jamestown, Virginia—105 persons, with w laborers or artisans and no families. The planting of nglish colonies in America had been provided for, the ar before, by two royal letters-patent, to the London and ymouth companies.

⁂ The government of England at that time was a monarchy ited by Magna Charta, (obtained in 1215,) and subsequent laws, t persistently aiming at arbitrary power, while parliament (known that name at least since 1272, and working under its present contution since about fifty years later,) which, however, represented ly the upper classes, labored with equal persistence to curb the yal pretensions and abolish the most odious of the assumed erogatives.

1614. New Amsterdam, now New York, d Fort Orange, now Albany, occupied by Dutch traders, virtue of the discovery of that region, five years before, Henry Hudson, in the service of the Netherlands.

⁂ The political troubles in England and the persecution of uritans and Independents induced many of these to emigrate. heir principles of brotherhood, freedom and equality, restricted wever by the qualification of church fellowship, found free scope d took deep root in America.

1620. Arrival of the Pilgrim Fathers (refuees in Holland since 1609) at Cape Cod, in New England, o named in 1614.) First political union of free and equal en formed by them in "The Compact of Liberty," as llows: "In the name of God, Amen. We, whose names re hereunder written [41 male adults,] the loyal subjects of ur dread sovereign lord, King James..... having underaken for the glory of God and advancement of the Christian Faith and honor of our king and country, a voyage to lant the first colony in the northern part of Virginia, do y these presents, solemnly and mutually, in the presence f God and one another, covenant and combine ourselves ogether into a civil body politic for our better ordering and reservation and futherance of the ends aforesaid, and by irtue hereof, to enact, constitute and frame such just and qual laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions and offices, from ime to time, as shall be thought most meet and convenient or the general good of the colony, and to which we promse all due submission and obedience. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names at Cape Cod, this eleventh day of November..... Anno Domini, 1620." Plymouth Colony founded by the Pilgrim Fathers.

⁂ In England a growing hatred of despotism and love of freeom. Puritans, Independents, constitutional monarchists and reublicans opposed to the supporters of the divine right of kings. Parliament clamoring for its rights; its leaders imprisoned by the king. The rise of political parties in the modern sense—the Court and Country parties.

1621. First written constitution, given to Virginia, granted an elective legislature and trial by jury. First Navigation Act, prescribing export of Virginia tobacco direct to England. First Charter or patent to John Pierce and associates from the Council of Plymouth, for the benefit of the Plymouth colony.

1623. Settlements at Dover and Portsmouth in Laconia, now New Hampshire, under patents to Mason and Gorges. First permanent settlement in New Netherlands of thirty Walloon families, at and near New Amsterdam.

⁂ First debate on colonial affairs in parliament: "America," said Calvert, "is not annexed to the realm nor within the jurisdiction of parliament; you have therefore no right to interfere." "We make laws for Virginia," said a member; "a bill passed by the Commons and the Lords, if it receives the king's assent, will control the patent." An act was passed granting freedom of commerce without regard to the alleged rights of the patentees or proprietors of colonial settlements. Resolution of Parliament granting "freedom from all impeachment, imprisonment or molestation" for the words or acts of members while in session. By the impeachment of the Earl of Middlesex it established the constitutional privilege of enforcing the responsibility of royal officials to the representatives of the people. 1625, Accession of Charles I. Conflict with parliament, and its dissolution by the king. 1626, Continued insubordidation, imprisoment of leaders, second dissolution; forced loans and arbitrary taxation by the king; indignation of the people.

1627. Purchase by the Plymouth colonists from the non-emigrating members, of the remaining interest in the colony.

1628. First Union of New England settlements for the suppression of Morton of Merry Mount, now Braintree, Mass.

⁂ In England, "The Petition of Rights," embodying the most pressing grievances, agreed to by both houses and reluctantly accepted by the king.

1629. First Charter to the Governor and Colony of Massachusetts Bay. Arrival of Puritans at Salem and Charlestown. The government transferred to the colonists, with the right to elect governor, deputy-governor and eighteen assistants, constituting the "General Court" or legislature. In New Netherlands, the establishment of "Patroons," or founders of colonies of not less than fifty persons, with the right of lordship or government under a "Charter of Liberties," granted by the Dutch West India Company.

⁂ Parliament dissolved and not again convened for eleven years, because of its opposition to arbitrary taxation by the king.

1630. Charter of Plymouth colony granted to William Bradford and others, with a right to the soil, previously withheld. The arrival of 1,000 Puritans gave rise to several new settlements in Massachusetts Bay Colony. Local Self-Government in these settlements. First "General Court" of Massachusetts Bay, held in Boston. Carolana, now North and South Carolina, granted by the king to Robert Heath.

1631. Franchise Limited to church members by the second "General Court" of Massachusetts Bay. 'Laconia" divided by Mason and Gorges, the proprietors, the former taking what he named New Hampshire, and the latter taking all to the east thereof. Warwick's patent to Connecticut, granted in 1630, transferred to Lord Say and Seal, Lord Brooke and others.

1632. Maryland granted to Lord Baltimore. Sixteen delegates sent to general court of Massachusetts Bay, by eight towns of the colony. Plymouth Colony passed an act imposing a penalty for declining office—$100 for refusing to be governor, and $50 for refusing to be a councillor or magistrate.

1633. First election of selectmen in the Massachusetts towns.

1634. Maryland settled by a Catholic colony, with representative government and religious toleration. English Commission appointed to supervise colonial affairs, with the right to revoke charters. Preparation for resistance in Boston, and refusal to surrender charter. 24 delegates from towns obtained seats in the general court. Allegiance sworn to colonial authorities instead of the crown, in Massachusetts, by the "Freeman's Oath."

⁂ In England various forms of illegal taxation. These and other abuses upheld by the court of star-chamber and other venal tribunals.

1635. First representative assembly in Maryland; its laws declared void by Lord Baltimore, who claimed the right to initiate legislation. Renewed attemps to withdraw its charter from Massachusetts Bay in the interest of the English patentees. First voting by ballot, for delegates to the general court of Massachusetts Bay. First grand jury at Boston. Political disturbances in Maryland and Virginia. First Puritan settlement in Connecticut, from Plymouth Colony.

1636. Town government in Massachusetts recognized by law of general court. Puritan colony at Hartford. The governor of Virginia sent back by Charles I. to rule the province, "if but for a day," in denial of the pretensions of the colonists. Providence, R. I., founded by Roger Williams and associates, under a compact: "To submit themselves in active and passive obedience to all such orders and agreements as should be made for the public good of the body in an orderly way, by major consent of the present inhabitants, masters of families, incorporated together into a township, and such others as they shall admit into the same, only in civil things." No taxation in Plymouth Colony except by consent of the freemen in public assembly. First code of laws of Plymouth Colony compiled. Military union of New England Colonies in the Pequod War.

⁂ In England, trial of John Hampden for resistance to illegal taxation.

1637. First project of political union of colonies, proposed by Plymouth to Massachusetts Bay, in May, and by Connecticut in August, failed because "the apprehensions of Connecticut dictated such extreme reserve in relation to grants of power to the proposed Confederacy, that Massachusetts did not deem it advisable to promote the scheme."

⁂ Renewal of Navigation Act of 1621, requiring the shipment of Virginia tobacco direct to England.

1638. Disinclination to union. "Because some pre-eminence was yielded to Massachusetts," Connecticut favored the right of veto in each colony on the acts of the confederacy, by which arrangement Massachusetts claimed "all would have come to nothing." Second colony in Rhode Island by Coddington and other friends of Anne Hutchinson, under the compact: "We, whose names are underwritten, do hereby solemnly, in the presence of Jehovah, incorporate ourselves into a body politic, and as He shall help, will submit our persons, lives and estates unto our Lord Jesus Christ, the King of kings and Lord of lords, and to all those perfect and absolute laws of His Holy Word of Truth, to be judged and guided thereby." They chose a governor, deputy-governor and five assistants.

Exeter colony established in what is now New Hampshire by dissenters from Massachusetts. New Haven colony established by fresh arrivals of Puritans from England, who formed this "Plantation Covenant:"

"That, as in matters that concern the gathering and ordering of a church, so likewise in all public offices which concern civil order, as choice of magistrates and officers, making and repealing of laws, dividing allotments of inheritance, and all things of like nature," they would "be ordered by the rules which the Scripture held forth."

Surrender of Charter of Massachusetts again refused to demand of royal commissioners. Swedish Colony settled on the Delaware.

1639. Project of Colonial Union, renewed by Connecticut, was rejected by Massachusetts, "not being satisfied with having an equal vote in the Confederacy with the smaller colonies." A constitution framed by Connecticut colonists, the assembly comprising an elected representative from each town, besides the governor and six magistrates elected by the whole colony. A house of burgesses provided for in Maryland, to consist of representatives elected by the people. First printing press, at Cambridge, Mass. First assembly of New Haven Colony. Settlement at Brunswick, in "the province of Maine," put itself under the government of Massachusetts Bay. The Government of Plymouth Colony changed from universal to representative democracy. Newport, R. I., colony established by dissenters from Anne Hutchinson's colony.

1640. Number of colonists of all ages in New England since the landing of the Pilgrims, about twenty-one thousand.

⁂ Meeting of the Long Parliament, which, despite some drawbacks, did more for the progress of civil liberty than any parliament before or since.

1641. The Charter of Plymouth Colony surrendered by Wm. Bradford to the whole body of freemen. "The Body of Liberties" of Massachusetts Bay, a constitution or code of 100 enactments, providing among other matters, that "there shall never be any bond slavery, villeinage or captivity among us, unless it be lawful captives taken in war, such as willingly sell themselves or are sold to us;" and that "there should be no monopolies, but of such new inventions as were profitable to the country, and that for a short time only."

⁂ Taxation without consent of parliament abolished in England, also the court of star-chamber, the high commission court and all arbitrary tribunals. 1642, Beginning of the Civil War. The designations Court and Country parties give place, for a time, to Royalist and Republican, nicknamed Cavaliers and Roundheads, respectively, by their opponents.

1642. Committee on colonial union appointed by Massachusetts Bay to confer with similar representatives of other colonies. House of burgesses in Virginia authorized by the king, the upper house to comprise the governor and council. Religious-political feuds in Maryland retard the progress of the colony.

1643. Toleration of all Forms of Religion in Rhode Island. Religious Intolerance in Virginia; all non-conformists to the Church of England ordered "to depart the colony with all conveniency." Servitude in punishment of crime abolished in Virginia. All exports and imports of New England exempted from duty by Parliament.

United Colonies of New England established by delegates from the colonies of Plymouth, Connecticut, New Haven and the General Court of Massachusetts Bay, mainly for mutual protection against their enemies, the union which was only an advisory body, to consist of two commissioners from each colony. Such as it was it lasted until 1686. Rhode Island was not invited because its people were regarded as schismatics, and when it sought admission was refused unless it would submit to Plymouth Colony.

Enlarged Area and Scope of Colonial Liberty and Union. First Steps toward Freedom of Religion and Free Schools. 1644-90.

1644. Union of Colonies in Rhode Island under a charter with a more democratic government. Division of the general court of Massachusetts into two chambers, insuring greater freedom to the direct representatives of the people.

1645 Progress in New Netherlands promoted by treaty with Indians. Slavery discountenanced in Massachusetts by return of two kidnapped slaves. Civil war in Maryland, eventuating some years later in extension of popular privileges.

1647. Complete freedom of religion established by assembly of Rhode Island: "All men may walk as their consciences persuade them, without molestation—every one in the name of his God."

⁂ In England the republican army under Cromwell overawed the parliament and seized the king, who rejected the proposal of biennial parliaments, equal and popular representation, and liberty of conscience with curtailment of privileges of Church of England. 1649. Execution of the king; abolition of monarchy and of the House of Lords; establishment of the Commonwealth.

1649. Free schools established by law in Massachusetts; Intolerance in Virginia; political discrimination against Puritans; population of Virginia, 15,000 whites, 300 negroes. Act of toleration in Maryland, granting freedom of worship to all Christian sects. The Commonwealth willingly accepted by New England; Virginia, loyal to royalty, proclaimed Charles II. king, whence its name of "Old Dominion."

1650. Colonial Peace and Progress promoted by settlement of boundary dispute between New Haven and New Netherlands by a Joint Commission. General Assembly of Maryland divided into two chambers; no taxation without consent of lower house established. Colony established on Chowan River, in what is now North Carolina.

⁂ In England military government under sanction of the "Rump" Parliament (comprising about 80 members of the Long Parliament) who distributed most of the offices among themselves and appointed a Council of State to administer the government.

1651. Attempted Subversion of the charter of Rhode Island, with a view to its absorption by the larger colonies. Colonial commerce forbidden to foreign vessels by English Navigation Act—first appearance of the prohibitive system in commerce.

1652. Submission of Virginia to the Commonwealth, taxation only with consent of the assembly and other principles of political liberty being guaranteed. Proprietary government in Maryland temporarily abolished by the Commonwealth. Slave trade, and slavery of more than ten years abolished in Rhode Island; they had never existed in Providence Plantation; both authorized in New Netherlands. Popular freedom in New Netherlands in conflict with Governor Stuyvesant. Demand for elective municipal government for New Amsterdam granted by the States General after having been refused by the governor, who strongly disapproved of such "imprudent entrusting of power with the people."

⁂ The Long Parliament, as represented by the "Rump," dissolved by Cromwell, who became by the grace of its successor, "Barebones' Parliament," Lord Protector of the Three Kingdoms. The vigorous but arbitrary and personal government of the protector a more severe but a less deeply rooted despotism than that of the late king. 1654. The new parliament—400 members for England and 30 each for Scotland and Ireland, with electoral qualification of £200, freehold or movable—peremptorily dissolved without passing a single bill.

1654. Disfranchisement of Roman Catholics in Maryland by the Protestant majority in the assembly; violent antagonism of Catholic and Protestant parties resulted in temporary anarchy; the commissioners ordered by Cromwell, "not to busy themselves about religion, but to settle the civil government."

1655. European sovereignties in America diminished by the conquest of New Sweden by New Netherlands. Civil War in Maryland; defeat of the Catholic party.

⁂ In England a conspiracy to restore the monarchy crushed; the country divided into twelve military governments.

⁂ 1658. Death of Cromwell; succession of his son. 1659. Assembling of parliament, and its dissolution by the army; establishment of Committee of Safety; the nation refused to pay taxes; resignation of Richard Cromwell as protector; apprehensions of anarchy. 1660. The Convention Parliament called by Gen. Monk; royalty restored by acclamation; accession of Charles II.; general amnesty except to regicides; the army disbanded, except 1,000 cavalry and 4,000 foot—the first royal standing army; the parliament dissolved.

1661. No Taxation in Massachusetts without consent of general court. Religious intolerance in Virginia resulting from re-establishment of Church of England. Royal order for arrest of fugitive regicides in New England failed of execution, through lack of zeal of the colonial authorities. Last Quaker execution in New England, at Boston.

1662. Extension of franchise to members of the Church of England in Massachusetts demanded by the king. First charter of Connecticut, including New Haven colony, granted an enlarged degree of popular liberty.

1663. Colonial trade restricted to England by an amemdment to the navigation acts. Royal patent for Carolana (Carolina) issued to Lord Clarendon and others, with freedom of conscience to colonists, and the right to elect governor and legislators. Franchise limited in Connecticut by property qualification of £20, besides personal property.

1664. Clarendon County colony established in Carolina. New Netherlands granted by Charles II. to his brother, the Duke of York, and name changed to New York. The portion of New York now known as New Jersey, granted by the Duke of York to Lord Berkeley and Sir Geo. Carteret. Submission of New Netherlands to the duke's fleet; appointment of an English governor by him. Failure of royal commissioners to enforce a larger measure of royal authority in Massachusetts No taxation without consent of legislature affirmed by Rhode Island.

1665. Free schools provided for New England towns. New Jersey formed into a separate government, with an elective assembly, liberty of conscience, and no taxation without consent of the assembly.

1666. First colonial naturalization act, in Maryland.

1667. Conquest of New Netherlands sanctioned by Treaty of Breda. Tyrannical exactions in New York, by the Duke of York's governors: "If there is any more murmuring against the taxes," said the governor, "make them so heavy that the people can do nothing but think how to pay them." The promise of a representative assembly evaded, and the settlers required to purchase new deeds to their lands.

1668. First general assembly of New Jersey.

1670. Carteret colony founded at "Old Charlestown," in Carolina. The "Grand Model" or "Fundamental Constitutions," framed by John Locke, introduced into Carolina, but found not practical enough to form a basis for colonial legislation. Absence of free schools and printing a subject of thanksgiving to Governor Berkeley of Virginia.

1670–2. Discontent of New Jersey colonists, and resistance to quit-rent claim of proprietary governor.

1672. Governor deposed by assembly of New Jersey, and replaced by another son of the proprietor.

⁂ First impost on inter-colonial commerce, "based upon the principle that the colonies were established at the cost, and for the benefit of the mother country."

1673. Proprietary government in Virginia, by royal grant to Earl of Arlington and Lord Culpepper, for 31 years. New York taken by the Dutch, July 30.

1674. New York restored to England by Treaty of Westminster, February 19, and surrendered to English governor, October 31.

1675. Resistance of Connecticut to the assumption of dominion by the governor appointed by the Duke of York, whose new patent covered from the Connecticut to the Delaware. Prosperity of New England checked by the Indian War of King Philip.

1676. Bacon's "Rebellion" in Virginia and success of the popular party under his leadership. First election by universal suffrage, of assembly of Virginia, and no taxation without consent of assembly affirmed. Arbitrary government in Virginia in conflict with the "rebels," who burn Jamestown. Death of Bacon, subjugation of his followers and hanging of the leaders. The royal expectation of submission of Massachusetts again disappointed. The spirit of popular liberty in Carolina strengthened by arrival of refugees from Virginia—Bacon's patriots.

1677. Maine transferred to Massachusetts by purchase from heirs of original proprietor. Oppression in Virginia not relaxed by recall of Berkeley.

⁂ In England the names Court and Country parties, which had revived after the Restoration, replaced respectively by those of Tory and Whig.

1678. Universal suffrage in Maryland, in electing assembly. Conflict in Virginia between its popular assembly and royal governor.

⁂ Habeas corpus act in England, after repeated passage of the same by the Commons since 1669. The great aim of the king was to establish an absolute monarchy with the aid of Tories and Catholics, whose church was to be established by law. Impeachment of Catholic peers by Parliament.

1680. Arbitrary government in Virginia continued by the proprietor-governor Culpepper. Indian captives sold into slavery from Carolina. Duties on imports without its consent declared "illegal and unconstitutional" by assembly of New Jersey.

1681. Pennsylvania granted to William Penn, whose aim was "to establish a free commonwea without respect to the color, race or religion of its inha ants," and especially as a refuge for the members of own faith, the Quakers.

⁂ After repeated annual dissolutions parliament was again solved, and the power of the crown became nearly absolute; parliament for four years.

1682. Arrival of Penn in his colony; formati of Treaty of Shakamaxon with the Indians; calling of general assembly, and passage of a code of laws.

1683. First School in Pennsylvania. First sembly or convention of freeholders in New York; supren legislative power declared to be in the governor, the coun and the people; no taxation without consent of assembl trial by jury; soldiers should not be quartered on the peopl martial law should not be proclaimed; no person who a cepted the general doctrines of religion should be pers cuted.

1684. Treaty of Albany, between governors New York and Virginia and the chiefs of the Iroquoi promoted peace and prosperity in the colonies. Virgini again a royal province, by revocation of grant to Arlingto and Culpepper; the liberty of the colonists not enhance by the change. Charter of Massachusetts declared forfei by the English courts.

1685. Charter of Massachusetts declare void by King James, who appointed Joseph Dudley president of all New England.

⁂ Accession of James II. and continuance of the royal struggl for absolute power. Liberty of conscience declared, mainly t relieve the Catholics. Rebellions in England and Scotland quelled 1686. The King's Bench affirmed the right of the crown to set asid acts of parliament. 1687. Increasing alarm and discontent in England and Scotland.

1686. First printing press in Pennsylvania. Huguenot exiles arrive in the colonies. Liberty-loving victims of Jeffrey's bloody assizes transported to Virginia. Despotism in New England under Governor-General Andros, December 19, 1686, to April 18, 1689.

1687. Charter of Connecticut hidden from Andros.

1688. First protest against negro slavery, by Quakers of Pennsylvania. Area of despotism enlarged by addition of New York and New Jersey to the jurisdiction of Andros.

Despotism in Carolina overthrown; trial and punishment of Governor Sothel by the assembly; peace, progress and freedom under his successors. Despotism in Virginia resisted by an assembly "more turbulent than any which had preceded;" armed insurrection prevented by the Revolution in England.

⁂ The Revolution: Flight of King James to France; the throne declared vacant; accession of William and Mary; declaration of rights: principles established, that a sovereign could forfeit his right to the nation's allegiance, and that the chief end of government is the public good; overthrow of absolutism; triumph of parliament, and the way opened for the gradual extension of civil and religious liberty to the great body of the people.

1689. Government of Maryland wrested from the Catholic party. Despotism overthrown from Maine to Pennsylvania by the imprisonment of Andros in Boston; Committee of Safety appointed, and Assembly convened; former charter declared in force; William and Mary proclaimed sovereigns, and provisional government of Massachusetts sanctioned by them. Despotism overthrown in New York; Leisler's insurrection in favor of William and Mary. Progress of Maine retarded by Indian disturbances. First public school in Pennsylvania founded by Quakers of Philadelphia. King William's War begun, between England and France and their American colonies; development of these retarded by war, which however promoted future liberty and union by the severe discipline of a common danger and the necessity of concerting broader measures of attack and defense, as well as statesmanship.

1690. Progress of Virginia promoted by the appointment of a more liberal governor.

A broader colonial union instituted by the assembling at New York of a congress of delegates from Massachusetts, Plymouth, Connecticut and New York colonies, to take counsel together and project plans for the general safety of all the colonies and for the invasion of Canada.

Liberty and Union Promoted by Growth of Colonies, by Wars and Treaties, Founding of Newspapers, and a Wider Intercolonial Public Opinion.

1691. Progress retarded in New York by the conflicts of local factions. Catholics disfranchised in Maryland, at its change from a proprietary to a royal province. Separation of Delaware from Pennsylvania.

1692. Pennsylvania taken from Penn, and its government annexed to that of New York. New Charter uniting Massachusetts, Plymouth and the Eastern colonies, slightly reactionary in asserting petty royal prerogatives, gave rise to party distinctions of "Liberty Men" and "Prerogative Men." Religious freedom denied and progress retarded in Massachusetts by executions for witchcraft; the delusion at its height

1693. Government of Delaware annexed to New York.

694. Proprietary government restored to n in Pennsylvania and Delaware. County schools es- ished in Maryland.

695. A Puritan colony from Massachusetts es- ished in Carolina. Civil and religious liberty in Caro- promoted by the appointment of a Quaker governor.

696. Project of colonial union by Penn: That the several colonies do meet once a year, and oftener if l be during war, and once in two years in peace, by stated ities to debate and resolve of such measures as are most ad- ble for their better understanding and the public tranquility safety."

lavery discouraged by resolution of the yearly eting of Quakers. Colony of New York invaded by the nch from Canada. Colonial affairs entrusted to English ard of Trade and Plantations, more especially as to en- cement of navigation acts, which proved an instru- nt of oppression and a seed of discontent and revolution.

1700. Military union of colonies promoted apportionment of contingents to each in the event of war h Indians or French.

1701. Slavery discountenanced in Boston by tructions to representatives in the general court to labor put a period to negroes being slaves." Property quali- ation for suffrage, 50 acres of real or £50 of personal perty, required by new charter of liberties of Pennsyl- ia. Religious freedom denied in New York and New gland to "Jesuit and popish priests," as alleged "incen- ries."

1702. Colonial prosperity retarded by Queen ne's War. Delaware permanently separated from Penn- vania. Progress of New York hindered by a selfish and fligate governor. Free grammar school established in w York.

1703. Growth of liberty in American colo- es as reported to English government: "Common- alth notions improve daily, and if not checked in time, e rights and privileges of British subjects will be thought o narrow."

1704. First permanent newspaper, the Boston ews Letter.

1705. Growth of liberty in Virginia through an erregnum of five years in the office of governor.

1706. The franchise restored to dissenters in rolina.

1707. New Jersey's remonstrance against bitrary acts of the governor, asserted the principle that liberty is too valuable a thing to be easily parted with."

⁂ First united parliament of Great Britian. Growing import- ce to the kingdom of her American colonial trade.

⁂ 1711. Property qualifications of country members of parlia- ent fixed by a Tory ministry at £600, and of borough members at 00 a year. Divine right of kings, passive obedience of subjects d abhorrence of Whigs inculcated by the dominant party in urch and state.

1712. Military union of Virginia and Carolina ainst Tuscarora Indians. Abolition of slavery in Penn- lvania declared by its assembly to be "neither just nor nvenient."

1713. Queen Anne's War closed by treaty of trecht. The prosperity of the colonies further promoted y treaty of Portsmouth, between New England and the tely hostile Indians. Continued dissatisfaction of the lonies with the governors and other royal officials. All f Maine annexed to government of Massachusetts.

⁂ 1714. Accession of George I. The government almost entirely the hands of parliament, which was itself an aristocracy divided to two great parties figthing for place and power.

1715. Progress of Carolina retarded by Indians nd pirates.

1716. Two thousand slaves in Massachu- etts.

1717. Increase of New England commerce hown by the clearing from the port of Boston alone, of 247 vessels in three years.

1718. Freedom of the press curtailed by fficial censorship in New England.

1719. Boston Gazette and American Week- y Mercury of Philadelphia established. Colonial manu- actures discouraged by parliament, as tending to lessen ependence on Great Britain.

1721. New England Courant established; its ree criticism punished by imprisonment of publisher.

1722. Discontent of New England at the con- inued enforcement of the royal prerogative of selecting he best forest trees.

⁂ Parliament authorized the acceptance from Quakers of an ffirmation instead of an oath, and some other attempts were nade by the Whigs to promote religious liberty, through which the rinciple of toleration became gradually established.

1725. New York Gazette established.

1727. Excessive importation of slaves vigor- usly condemned by leaders of opinion in Carolina.

⁂ Accession of George II. The first fourteen years of his reign were marked by the political conflict between Walpole and the pposition.

1728. The Maryland Gazette established at Annapolis.

1729. Proprietary government of Carolina sold to the crown, and two royal governments, North and South Carolina, established. First large Irish immigration, settling chiefly in Maryland and Virginia.

1731. Colonial manufactures create alarm in England, as they "would interfere with the profit made by the British merchants."

1732. South Carolina Gazette and Rhode Island Gazette established. Royal charter for colonizing Georgia with released poor debtors. Export of colonial manufactures forbidden by the "hat act." "I will leave the taxation of America," said Walpole, "to some of my successors who have more courage than I have."

1733. All sugar imported into the colonies taxed under the "importation act." First Georgia colony, 35 families, settled at Savannah; slavery and rum excluded; Jewish colonists received despite the remonstrance of the Georgia trustees in England. Massachusetts' remonstrance against official encroachments rebuked by the home government, "as a high insult tending to shake off the dependence of the colony upon the kingdom." Indian treaties at Philadelphia and in Georgia.

1734. Freedom of colonial press vindicated by the acquittal of the publisher of the New York Weekly Journal, which had opposed the claim of the governor for unearned "back pay."

1738. Slave insurrection in South Carolina quelled.

1739. Stamp act proposed by Governor Keith of Pennsylvania.

1740. First law defining slavery in South Carolina.

⁂ A motion of censure in parliament of Walpole's unscrupulous system of political corruption, defeating opposition by purchasing the necessary majority. His secret service outlay from 1732 to 1742 was £1,453,400, relatively a much larger sum then than now.

1741. The General Magazine and Historical Chronicle issued by Franklin. Panic in New York, from apprehension of a negro insurrection, subsided only after burning and hanging some of the alleged conspirators.

1742. Patent declined by Franklin, on his stove, on the ground that, "as we are benefited by the inventions of others we should be willing to devote our own to the general welfare."

1743. Georgia colony deprived of the fostering care of its founder, Ogelthorpe, by his return to England.

1745. The fall of Louisburg, "the Gibraltar of America," "filled Europe with amazement and America with joy" at the prowess of the colonial troops, and exerted no little influence on the progress of the colonies toward independence.

1747. Surrender of impressed seamen at Boston to the demand of the citizens.

1748. Opposition of New York assembly to the demands of royal officials. Arbitrary colonial government promoted, and the English constitution menaced by the doctrine of the divine right of kings and the duty of non-resistance. King George's War closed by Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle. First export of cotton, a small lot from Charleston. Manufacture of fire-arms in Massachusetts.

1749. Stamp act suggested by a royal official of Boston. First female academy, by Moravians, at Bethlehem, Pa. Peace of Georgia menaced by the intrigues with the half-breed "queen of the Creeks."

1750. Divine right of kings and non-resistance vigorously denounced from a Boston pulpit—an "impious bargain," said Mayhew, "between the sceptre and the surplice;" a "fabulous and chimerical" doctrine; if rulers oppress, resistance is "lawful and glorious." Colonial manufactures of iron declared "a common nuisance" by parliament, and prohibited under a penalty of £200.

1751. Colonial union urged from a royal official standpoint. The receiver-general at New York recommended that there should be held by authority of parliament, "an annual meeting of commissioners from all the colonies at New York or Albany. From upwards of 40 years' observation upon the conduct of provincial assemblies, and the little regard paid by them to instructions," he was satisfied that "a British parliament must oblige them to contribute, or the whole would end in altercation and words."

1752. Colonial union projected by Franklin, who declared that, "a voluntary union entered into by the colonies themselves would be preferable to one imposed by parliament; for it would be perhaps not much more difficult to procure, and more easy to alter and improve, as circumstances should require and experience direct." Colonial affairs more fully entrusted to the Board of Trade and Plantations in England.

1753. Colonial taxation urgently pressed by the Board of Trade to obtain "a revenue with which to fix settled salaries on the northern governors and defray the cost of Indian alliances."

1754. The French and Indian War, begun by a conflict between the colonial pioneers of England and France in America, and destined to settle the conflicting colonial claims of the two nations, was not formally declared until May 17, 1756, in Europe, where it became known as the Seven Years' War, 1756–63.

Franklin's plan of colonial union, or general constitution of the colonies, adopted at Albany by a convention of twenty-five delegates from seven colonies—New York 5, Massachusetts 5, New Hampshire 4, Pennsylvania 4, Connecticut 3, Rhode Island and Maryland 2—Connecticut's members alone dissenting.

It provided for a president-general. to be appointed and paid by the crown, and a grand council, to be elected by the colonial assemblies, "in proportion to the money arising out of each colony to the general treasury," "yet so as that the number to be chosen by any one province be not more than seven nor less than two," with stated annual meetings, "power to choose their speaker," power to make general laws, affecting Indian relations, new settle ments, army and navy—"but they shall not impress men in any colony without the consent of the legislature;" to levy taxes—"rather discouraging luxury than loading industry with unnecessary burthens;" all laws made by them "shall not be repugnant, but as near as may be agreeable to the laws of England, and shall be transmitted to the king in council for approbation," having previously received the assent of the president-general in America.

As the compromises of statesmen are always objectionable to extremists, the "Plan of Union" was rejected. "The Assemblies all thought there was too much prerogative in it, and in England it was thought to have too much of the democratic," wrote Franklin.

Colonial Liberty and Union Stimulated by the Exactions of the British Government, 1755-65.

1755. Future independence foreshadowed: "In another century," wrote John Adams in his diary, "all Europe will not be able to subdue us. The only way to keep us from setting up for ourselves is to disunite us." Permanent settlement on the Penobscot by immigrants from Massachusetts.

1756. War declared between England and France, by the former on May 17, and by the latter on June 7. The campaign in America not important, but rather to the advantage of the French.

⁂ William Pitt, prime minister of England.

1757. Restoration of Liberty in Pennsylvania attempted by commissioning Franklin as agent to England, "to represent the unhappy state of the province, that all occasion of dispute hereafter might be removed by an act of the British legislature." Anti-colonial resolution in parliament, "that the claim of right in a colonial assembly to raise and apply public money by its own act alone, is derogatory to the crown and to the rights of the people of Great Britain," promoted discontent in the colonies. Disasters of the campaign felt by the colonists to be largely due to the inefficiency or cowardice of the English commanders, and accompanied by a deepening sense of the injustice of being required to supply men and money for operations in the management of which they had no voice. Somewhat more than half the army were colonial troops and taxation became so heavy that it sometimes took two-thirds the income of colonial land-owners.

1758. Massachusetts insisted on controlling its own war-fund. Campaign favorable to English and colonial arms—the capture of Louisburg, Fort Frontenac and Fort Du-Quesne. Treaty of Easton, Pa., with Indian tribes, north and west of the Ohio.

1759. Project of stamp act rejected by Pitt: "I will never burn my fingers," said he, "with an American stamp act." Progress of South Carolina retarded by ill treatment of Cherokees and the resulting war with that tribe. British and colonial arms successful—capture of forts Niagara, Ticonderoga, Crown Point and Quebec.

1760. War with the French ended by conquest of Canada, and the promised surrender of western outposts, and war with their Indian allies temporarily suspended. Colonial discontent increased by fresh orders for enforcement of navigation acts. Colonial self-government advocated by Franklin before the Board of Trade and Plantations in England, and generally accepted by American leaders as a right inherent in the people. Population of the colonies estimated at 310,000 blacks, and 1,385,000 whites, marked by great diversity of social, religious and race views and customs, and yet becoming gradually impressed with the sense of an underlying identity of interests as against England and the necessity of less intolerant and antagonistic relations among themselves, but with little opportunity for wide interchange of views between the inhabitants of the different, and especially the more distant colonies.

⁂ Accession of George III., who with the aid of the Tory party ruled as well as reigned, especially after Lord North became premier in 1770. Hence all the attacks on American liberty have been justly regarded as royal acts.

1761. Writs of assistance from the supreme court of Massachusetts in support of the alleged right, under the importation act of 1733, of universal search for smuggled goods, argued before the court by James Otis, who inveighed against them "as instruments of slavery on the one hand, and villainy on the other." "Then and there," said John Adams in later years, "was the first scene of the first act of opposition to the arbitrary claims of Great Britain. Then and there the child Independence was born." Slave trade discountenanced by heavy duties in Virginia and South Carolina. Subservience of colonial judiciary promoted by grant of commissions to remain in force during the pleasure of the king.

1763. Canada and Florida ceded to England by Treaty of Paris, closing the Seven Years' War. Future independence of colonies promoted by cession of Canada: "There now," said a French statesman, "we have arranged matters for an American rebellion in which England will lose her empire in the West." This view was shared by some Tory statesmen in England, who thought that the continuance of French dominion in Canada would tend to insure the permanent dependence and loyalty of the British colonies to the mother country. English domination in the West vainly resisted by the late Indian allies of the French, under Pontiac. Confiscation of vessels engaged in the contraband sugar trade with the colonies ordered by parliament, almost destroying colonial commerce with the West Indies. Colonial taxation and representation declared inseparable. The imposition of taxes only by the representatives of the people claimed by the colonists to be their constitutional right as Englishmen; and as they were represented only in their colonial assemblies, to these alone belonged the right to levy taxes and duties; great speech of Samuel Adams, in Boston, in vindication of the principle. "If we are not represented in the body that taxes us, and we submit," said he, "we are slaves."

1764. The right of taxing the colonies insisted on, by resolution of the British House of Commons. Great agitation throughout the colonies; contrary resolutions passed everywhere; formal remonstrances addressed to the king and the two houses of parliament; and colonial agents sent to England to prevent if possible the passage of the act. Boundary controversy between New Hampshire and New York, involving the settlements in what became Vermont, decided in England in the interest of the royal officials of New York, subjecting settlers to re-purchase of lands.

1765. Colonial taxation by parliament established by passage of American stamp act. Patrick Henry's resolutions in the House of Burgesses of Virginia proclaimed the principle of no taxation without consent of the body which represents those who pay the taxes, and were adopted by a majority of one. American congress proposed by James Otis in the general court of Massachusetts.

Colonial congress or convention at New York, sometimes called the stamp act congress, composed of twenty-seven delegates from nine colonies—New York 5; Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and South Carolina, 3 each; Rhode Island and Delaware, 2 each—"without the least claim of pre-eminence, one over the other." Letters of concurrence were received from the assemblies of Virginia, New Hampshire, North Carolina and Georgia. "We should stand," said a South Carolina delegate, "upon the common ground of those natural rights that we feel and know as men. . . . . . There ought to be no New-England man, no New-Yorker, known on the continent, but all of us Americans." They adopted a declaration of rights, a petition to the king, and a memorial to both houses of parliament. In England its suggestions were ignored and it was sneered at in parliament as "a federal union assembled without any requisition on the part of the supreme power."

Colonial Liberty and Union Promoted by the Attempts of Great Britain to Enforce Taxation, by Defensive Organizations, and by Correspondence between Colonial Assemblies—the Unarmed Struggle.

1765. Union Promoted by General Resistance to Stamp Act, which was characterized as "the folly of England and the ruin of America." Stamps destroyed or reshipped; stamp officers burned in effigy and forced to fly or resign; Sons of Liberty organized under a pledge to defend liberty and resist oppression with their lives, if necessary; colonial importers agreed not to trade with England until the act should be repealed; Daughters of Liberty and other societies, pledged to the making and wearing of home-spun, organized. "Nothing will now save us," wrote Gadsden, "but acting together. The province that endeavors to act separately must fall with the rest, and be branded besides with everlasting infamy." Whig and Tory, as party names, came into more general use—respectively, the friends and foes of the people.

1766. Delusive hope of freedom on repeal of stamp act. The right of colonial taxation re-asserted by parliament, with the right "to bind the colonies in all cases whatsoever." In the repeal discussion Pitt declared: "You have no right to tax America. I rejoice that America has resisted. Three millions of our fellow-subjects so lost to every sense of virtue as tamely to give up their liberties would be fit instruments to make slaves of the rest." Colonial rejoicing over repeal: the leaders not deceived by its superficial character; the qualifying resolution led Samuel Adams to declare that "the conduct of England is permitted and ordained by the unsearchable wisdom of the Almighty for hastening the independence of these colonies."

1767. Colonial taxation renewed by duties on glass, whitelead, painters' colors, paper and tea, imported into the colonies. Renewal of discontent and agitation in America. Arbitrary government attempted in Massachusetts by the governor's dismissal of the assembly and his refusal to call another. Regulation of local affairs claimed in North Carolina, in a general convention—thence called Regulators.

1768. Liberty menaced in New York by the presence of British troops, and the suspension of the assembly for refusing to vote military supplies. Colonial liberty promoted by John Dickinson's "Letters of a Farmer," which were republished in England by Franklin, and translated into French and published in Paris. Non-importation societies re-organized. The people rife for riot and insurrection, but kept in check by the prudence of their leaders: "To insult and tear each other to pieces," said Otis, "was to act like madmen." "Our cause," said Dickinson, "is a cause of the highest dignity. . . . I hope it will not be disgraced in any colony by a single rash step." "The day dawns," wrote William Livingston, "in which the foundation of this mighty empire is to be laid by the establishment of a regular American constitution. . . . Before seven years roll over our own heads the first stone must be laid. . . . No circumstance, whether prosperous or adverse, can happen to our parent; nay, no conduct of hers, whether wise or imprudent, no possible temper on her part, will put a stop to this building." "No assembly on the continent will ever concede that parliament has a right to tax the colonies," wrote Roger Sherman, "The right of unfettered discussion," said the same, "is inalienable, and we must maintain it." "We cannot believe," wrote William Williams, "that they will draw the sword in their own colonies; but if they do, our blood is more at their service than our liberties." "You [the Massachusetts assembly] are right, and that is sufficient for me," wrote John Morin Scott, a Son of Liberty of New York. "We will fight the tory faction here, and the British regulars too, if necessary." "We must maintain," wrote Richard Stockton, "the natural and chartered rights of the colonists, but by peaceful and lawful means." "Let these truths be indelibly impressed on our minds," wrote the secret author of a hand-bill circulated in New York, "that we cannot be free without being secure in our property; that we cannot be secure in our property if, without our consent, others may as by right take it away; that taxes imposed by parliament do thus take it away; that duties laid for the sole purpose of raising money are taxes; that attempts to lay such should be instantly and firmly opposed." Commotion in Boston because of seizure without a warrant of the sloop Liberty for alleged violation of the revenue law, pronounced by royal governor to be "an insurrection rather than a riot." A general spirit of insurrection declared by royal officials to be prevailing throughout the province.

Colonial union promoted by circular of Massachusetts to the other colonial assemblies, by whom it was cordially adopted despite the vigorous opposition and threats of the royal governors. By parliament it was declared to be "a seditious paper," and the assembly was ordered to apologize for their "rash and hasty proceeding," which declining to do, they were dismissed. "Let Britons rescind their measures," said Otis, "or they are lost forever." By the royal minister, in his correspondence with the colonial governors, it was characterized as a document "of most dangerous and factious tendency." Liberty menaced in Massachusetts by encampment of royal troops on Boston Common; refusal of colonial authorities to furnish military supplies. Popular liberty asserted in Massachusetts in a six days' convention, at Boston, of delegates from ninety-six towns, the governor having refused to summon the regular assembly. Circle of liberty completed by letter of North Carolina (Nov. 10), which was the last of the colonies to reply to the circular of Massachusetts.

1769. A purpose of independence and subversion of the constitution charged on Massachusetts by the king at the opening of parliament. The transportation of the Massachusetts leaders to England for trial suggested in parliament. Colonial union promoted by resolutions of Virginia's house of burgesses, claiming for that body "the sole right of imposing taxes," and "the lawfulness and expediency of procuring a concert of the colonies in case of the violated rights by America," of which a copy was sent "to every legislature in America," with request to concur.

Union of colonies in a general congress "which should exercise legislative power for them all," suggested by New York assembly, "without waiting for further aggressions." Colonial independence foreseen in England: "I now warn ministers," said Col. Barré in the House of Commons, "that, if they persist in their wretched course of oppression, the whole continent of North America will rise in arms, and these colonies perhaps be lost to England forever." Freedom of legislation menaced in the opinion of the Massachusetts assembly by the presence of armed troops in Boston, and they declined to discuss any subject but the redress of grievances. Toryism and toadyism of New York assembly censured by the people in mass meeting. The resolution declared by the assembly to be "an infamous and scandalous libel."

1770. Aversion to English rule deepened in New York by the cutting down by the soldiers of the people's emblem of freedom, the liberty pole. Hostility to royal government intensified in Massachusetts by the bl altercation between soldiers and citizens, known as " Boston massacre." Removal of royal troops from the on demand of the people. Whig and Tory still n widely used to designate, respectively, those who fav the popular cause, or the pretensions of the crown. right to tax the colonies re-asserted by parliament, by taining the duty on tea, upon the repeal of the act of 1 To this the colonies responded by continuing their n importation societies as to tea. "The little convenie and comforts of life," wrote the merchant, George Mas "when set in competition with our liberty, ought to rejected, not with reluctance but with pleasure." spirit of liberty fostered in New York by the trial and prisonment of Alex. McDougall, a Son of Liberty, char with the authorship of obnoxious hand-bill, "To the trayed Inhabitants of the City and Colony of New Yor which led to the mass meeting of citizens and their cens of the assembly. On being sentenced to imprisonment contempt, he said, "I rejoice that I am the first to su for liberty since the commencement of our glorious str gle."

1771. Freedom of discussion honored by attentions paid to McDougall in prison, and by his relea Arbitrary government strengthened in North Carolina defeat of the Regulators and the execution of six of th leaders.

1772. The struggle for liberty renewed Massachusetts by an act of parliament requiring the p ment of salaries of governor and judges from colonial fu without consent of assembly, which declared the act to subversive of their chartered rights and therefore vo Summary vindication of liberty by the people of Provide by capturing and burning the royal revenue schoo Gaspee. Coöperation of patriots promoted by formation committees of correspondence throughout Massachuset

1773. Inter-colonial co-operation of p triots begun by Virginia assembly in appointing a co mittee of correspondence to represent the colony in co municating with the other colonies. Union against Briti aggression promoted by Sons of Liberty and Committees Correspondence. Taxation without representation resist in the anti-tea agitation: the sending of tea by Great Brita into the colonies declared, at a meeting of citizens of Ph adelphia, to be "an attack on the liberties of America Anti-tea hand-bill in Boston declared that "the hour destruction, or manly opposition to the machinations tyranny" had arrived, and it summoned the people, at t ringing of the bells, "to make united and successful resi ance to this last, worst and most destructive measure administration." Tea thrown overboard by the "Bost Tea Party" some days later. Tea sent back from Philad phia and New York, on demand of the people.

1774. The act of defiance of the Boston Tea Par applauded throughout the colonies, but declared by t English government to be "open rebellion," which "mu be punished." Local delegate convention of Boston a vicinity deliberated on methods of defense against oppre sion, urged stricter observance of non-importation compa and sent a circular letter to other colonies. Repression liberty in Massachusetts by acts of parliament—the Bost Port bill, forbidding commerce with that city; the bill f regulating the government of Massachusetts Bay, maki the governor's council and the supreme court independe of the people, and forbidding town meetings without t consent of the governor; and the Murder bill, providi that officials charged with murder should be removed fro the province for trial.

⁂ In relation to these bills, Burke exclaimed in parliament "What can Americans believe but that England wishes to desp America of all liberty, of all franchise, and by the reduction of t charters to reduce them to a state of the most abject slavery and Pownall prophesied that these arbitrary measures would dri the Americans into calling a general congress and perhaps resor ing to arms. If the Americans do not reject these bills, said a other member, "they are the most abject slaves upon earth, an nothing the ministers can do is base enough for them," while st another added: "I am sorry to say that not only the House h fallen into this error, but the people approve of the measure. Th people, I am sorry to say, have been misled. But a short time wi prove the evil tendency of this bill. If there ever was a natio rushing headlong to ruin, it is this."

1774. New York assembly tainted with Toryism and not in sympathy with the tendency of the times towar revolution. Liberty sustained in Virginia. The House Burgesses, being dissolved for non-compliance with th governor's wishes, constituted itself the Provincial Assembly of Virginia, and declared for a general congress as suggested by New York five years before. Free deliberatio maintained in Massachusetts, whose assembly, dissolve by the governor, refused to separate before it had declare for a general congress.

Impending revolution: "They were rushing towards revolution," says Bancroft, "and they knew it not."

The Continental Congress met in Philadelphia September 5, and organized by electing Peyton Randolph, of Virginia, as president. It comprised fifty-five delegates from twelve colonies, Georgia only not represented This was virtually the birth of the republic, as the people thenceforth looked to that body as the guiding spirit o the colonies in their struggle with the British governmen Congress indorsed non-importation, requesting coloni merchants "not to send any order to Great Britain, and t delay the execution of any order already sent;" they ap ved "the opposition of the inhabitants of Massachusetts y to the execution of the late acts of parliament; and if same shall be attempted to be carried into execution by cc, in such case all America ought to support them in ir opposition;" they formulated a Declaration of Col- al Rights; and agreed upon fourteen articles of Amer- n Association, the second of which was: "We will ther import nor purchase any slave imported after the st day of December next." Jefferson had previously clared in the Virginia legislature, that "the abolition of mestic slavery is the greatest object of desire in these lonies, where it was unhappily fixed in their infant state." ey wrote an "Address to the People of Great Britain," 'Memorial to the Inhabitants of the several British- nerican Colonies," a "Petition to the King," and an Address to the Inhabitants of the Province of Canada."

The ruling idea of congress and the people was obtain for the several colonies the rights guaranteed by e British constitution as modified and enlarged by their arters and established political privileges, without hostil- to a constitutional monarchy or any deliberate purpose separation from the mother country. "No such thing independence," said Washington, in October, 1774, s desired by any thinking man in America." By giving each delegation only a single vote, this congress laid the undation for future union on the basis of equality of lonies. Of their labors, Lord Chatham spoke thus in the ouse of Lords: "When your lordships look at the papers ansmitted to us from America; when you consider their ecency, firmness and wisdom, you cannot but respect eir cause, and wish to make it your own. For myself, I ust declare and avow, that in all my reading and obser- ation—I have read Thucydides (and it has been my fav- ite study) and have studied and admired the master ates of the world—that for solidity of reasoning, force of gacity, and wisdom of conclusion, under such a compli- ation of difficult circumstances, no nation or body of men an stand in preference to the general congress at Phil- delphia." Henry Middleton, of South Carolina, chosen resident. Adjournment of Congress, October 26, to meet lay 10, 1775, unless redress should be granted.

Virtual revolution and abolition of royal authority Massachusetts. The general court having been called by he governor, and the call rescinded because of anticipated nsubordination, they constituted themselves a Provincial Congress of 260 members, which assumed executive and le- islative powers, and actually represented the sovereignty f the people of Massachusetts, appointing a Committee of Safety, to protect the interests of the people during ad- ournment. Preparation for war in Massachusetts by en- ollment of 12,000 minute-men—to take the field at a ninute's notice—under authority of the Provincial Con- gress. Their acts denounced by the governor. Anticipation of war by the British government, which forbade importa- ion of military stores into the colonies; seizure by the colonists of arms and ammunition.

1775. A provincial convention, followed by a provincial congress, in North Carolina, to replace the assembly dissolved by the governor for daring to approve the acts of the Continental Congress. Provincial conventions in Maryland and New Jersey, replacing assemblies. Obstruction of elections for delegates to Congress by royal governors under direction of British government. New York assembly declining to appoint delegates to Congress, they were appointed by a convention, and the assembly was replaced by a provincial congress, May 22, which was succeeded by the state legislature, three years later. First society for the abolition of slavery, in Philadelphia.

Liberty, Union and Independence Won by War. Period of Armed Struggle. Whigs and Tories. The Revolutionary Government.

1775. The Whig or Patriot Party, during the period between the battle of Lexington and the Declaration of Independence (April 19, 1775, to July 4, 1776), were willing to continue in the relation of colonists provided their rights as such were properly guaranteed by Great Britain.

The War of Independence precipitated by the Battle of Lexington, and the contingency of eventual separation from the mother country more widely entertained. "That there be any who pant after independence," wrote John Adams, earlier in the year, "is the greatest slander," and Jefferson afterwards wrote, "Before the 19th of April, 1775, I had never heard a whisper of a disposition to separate from Great Britain." It had been hoped that a "durable union between Britain and the Colonies" could be amicably established, but actual hostilities dispelled the illusion. A despotic king, who was incapable of entertaining even the conception of popular freedom, and a pliant ministry, whose subserviency to his arbitrary will was the surest guarantee of its continuance in power, were engaged in a continued and unscrupulous attempt to revolutionize the government of Great Britain, and were utterly impervious to all apprehension of danger from the conflict they were determined to force upon the colonies in vindication of the alleged rights of the crown.

The Second Continental Congress met at Philadelphia, May 10, comprising delegates from twelve colonies, Georgia remaining unrepresented until July. Peyton Randolph, of Virginia, elected president. Without a formal renunciation of allegiance they proceeded to assume several of the functions of a general government, sent a second petition to the king, which may be regarded as the last official expression of loyalty to the crown. John Hancock, of Massachusetts, elected president, May 24, to succeed Peyton Randolph who had resigned to take his seat in the Virginia House of Burgesses. Declaration of independence by settlers of Mecklenburg county, North Carolina. Election of George Washington as commander-in-chief of the continental army by Congress. A Tory newspaper office—New York Gazetteer—destroyed by patriots of New Haven. Assumption of national powers by Congress, in voting bills of credit.

A form of confederation sketched by Franklin on the basis of his "Plan of Union," of 1754, but with less recognition of the royal claims, and designed to be perpetual in case reconciliation with the crown should prove a vain hope, failed to receive the attention of Congress, which was still unwilling to take so decisive a step, hoping to receive a favorable reply to their humble petition; and was repudiated by others because it gave too great powers to Congress. "The idea of destroying all provincial distinctions," said Rutledge, of South Carolina, "and making everything of the most minute kind bend to what they call the good of the whole, is, in other terms, to say that these colonies must be subject to the government of the eastern provinces. . . . . I am resolved to vest the Congress with no more power than what is absolutely necessary, and to keep the staff in our own hands; for I am confident, if surrendered into the hands of others, a most pernicious use will be made of it." Virtual sovereignty asserted by the expulsion of Dr. Benjamin Church from Congress, for disloyalty. Prospect of independence not less favorable because of the military operations of the year.

1776. Union typified in the hoisting of the first American flag over the camp at Boston. Liberty, union and independence promoted by Paine's "Common Sense." Separation from Massachusetts, and establishment of a temporary state government by New Hampshire. Patriots encouraged by the triumph of their arms in compelling the evacuation of Boston. A state constitution adopted by South Carolina. Independence proclaimed by Rhode Island. To work for colonial independence urged on the delegates of Virginia in Congress, by the House of Burgesses. Negotiations for aid from France begun. Recommendation of Congress to the colonial assemblies that they severally "adopt such governments as shall best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular, and America in general." Connecticut and Rhode Island, content with the governments they had formed under their charters, did not frame new constitutions until 1818 and 1842, respectively. British authority in the colonies abrogated by Congress, and British property declared a lawful prize. Independence formally enunciated in Congress by Lee's Resolutions, June 7; and committee to draft a declaration of independence appointed, June 8; also a committee on foreign relations and a board of war. Declaration of rights adopted by Virginia convention. Lee's Resolutions passed by twelve colonies, July 2, New York's delegates not voting in the absence of instructions.

Declaration of Independence adopted by Congress, July 4. Birth of the Nation. A committee appointed to devise a seal for the United States of America, though no design was actually adopted until June 20, 1782. The royal statue in New York transformed into bullets. Declaration of Independence signed August 2, by fifty-four delegates of thirteen colonies, two being absent. "We must be unanimous," said President Hancock, "there must be no pulling different ways; we must all hang together." "Yes," said Franklin, "we must all hang together, or we shall all hang separately."

Sovereignty exercised by Congress in passing a pension act, and a homestead act in favor of those who should serve in the army to the close of the war. Sovereignty asserted by refusal to confer with British commissioners except on the basis of recognition of independence. Adoption of state constitutions by New Jersey (July 2), Virginia (July 5), Pennsylvania (July 15), Maryland (Aug. 14), Delaware (Sept. 20), North Carolina (Dec. 18); and New York declared her independence of Great Britain. Proclamation of pardon by British commander to all who would lay down their arms. Rhode Island occupied by British troops. Congress removed to Baltimore, Dec. 20, to escape capture by the British. Patriots encouraged by an important victory at Trenton. Negotiations for aid from France resumed under leadership of Franklin. Slaveholding declared incompatible with membership by the Society of Friends. Military operations of the year not encouraging.

1777. Patriots encouraged by Washington's success in New Jersey. Independence of Vermont, with abolition of slavery, declared. State constitutions adopted by Georgia and New York. Financial aid from France, without recognition of independence. Return of Congress to Philadelphia, March 4. Exchange of prisoners refused by Washington because of the inhuman treatment of Americans in British prison-ships. United States flag adopted by Congress. First anniversary of Independence celebrated. Congress removed to Lancaster Sept. 27, and thence to York, Pa., Sept. 30. Philadelphia taken by British. The patriot cause strengthened by surrender of Gen. Burgoyne. Board of War created to replace committee of Congress.

Union and Independence promoted by the adoption by Congress of the "Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union." Henry Laurens, of South Carolina, elected president, succeeding Hancock, who left that body to fight for his country as first major-general of Massachusetts militia. Military operations of the year indecisive.

1778. Independence of the United States recognized by France in a treaty of alliance and commerce. Plan of reconciliation by Lord North, based upon the old relations between the crown and the colonies, though adopted by parliament, failed to affect the United States, which had meanwhile passed far beyond that phase of political evolution. The patriot cause advanced by the evacuation of Philadelphia; and by the arrival of a French fleet and a French minister to the United States, as well as by the reception at the French court of the embassy from the United States. Increase of the United States territory by the conquest of the Northwest by Virginia troops under Col. George Rogers Clark. Congress returned to Philadelphia, July 2.

Permanent union certain through the adoption of the Articles of Confederation by eight states before July 9, and three others before the close of the year. In framing that instrument an overwrought idea of liberty and local independence operated on the minds of many of the patriotic delegates against granting to the central government the necessary powers, entailing dangerous weakness and even the risk of ultimate failure. Even the name of United States was tainted in the minds of some by a suspicion of centralization, and Confederated States was preferred as savoring less of consolidated power, so jealous were they of authority and so impressed with the difficulty of exercising great powers without abuse.

The Whig, Patriot or Revolutionary party, divided in Congress, in the State legislatures and among the people at large into two sections, which might be designated as State-rights Whigs and Strong-government Whigs, both being in accord as to the prosecution of the war and separation from Great Britain, but differing as to the powers to be entrusted to the central or union government. The form adopted was a genuine political victory to the former, who were in a majority and in the main had control of the government, although several of the most active civil and military leaders in the Revolution were of the opposite section. "The States separately," said Washington, "are too much engaged in their local concerns. If the great whole is mismanaged, the States individually must sink into the general wreck." John Jay, of New York, elected president of Congress. Military operations of the year indecisive.

1779. The patriot cause strengthened by the naval victory of Paul Jones. Financial credit of the United States very low, its bills being worth in gold only about three per cent. of their face value. An American minister to Spain commissioned. Samuel Huntington, of Connecticut, chosen president. A Board of Admiralty replaced naval committee of Congress. Military operations restricted by the diminished numbers of the American troops.

1780. Demand by Congress on the States to enlarge the army to 35,000 men. Gradual abolition of slavery enacted by Pennsylvania. French aid of 6,000 troops received by the United States. A state constitution adopted by Massachusetts. Negotiations with Holland begun by United States. Depreciation of the currency to about two and one-half per cent.

1781. Suffering, destitution and discontent of the army, with mutiny of some troops, because of arrears of pay and lack of proper supplies.

National union made permanent by the adoption by Maryland (last of the thirteen to accept,) of the Articles of Confederation, March 1. Congress adjourned.

Congress reassembled under the Articles of Confederation, March 2, Thomas McKean, of Delaware, chosen president, July 10. John Hanson, of Maryland, chosen president, November 5.

The Tory, Royalist or Loyalist party were willing that the colonies should remain subject to Great Britian, without any guarantee of chartered or otherwise established rights and usages. They constituted the opposition to the Whigs, Patriots or Revolutionists during the unarmed struggle of 1765 to 1775, in the controversy with the mother country. After the war began they gave aid and comfort to the enemy by enlistments (to the number of perhaps 25,000, from first to last,) and otherwise. There were many more, who for various causes were non-combatants, but no less virulent in their denunciations of the "rebels," on that account. After the Declaration of Independence, their position became more critical, as by that instrument they were made disloyalists to the new government and to their respective States, all of which assumed sovereignty and could not be indifferent to these internal enemies. With the sanction of Congress, penalties of confiscation, imprisonment, banishment and minor restrictions were imposed by the several legislatures. But as a rule, after the voluntary expatriation of the more violent and obnoxious of them, the patriots were content with keeping a close watch on their movements, to prevent as far as possible their being of service to the public enemy, to the undisguised chagrin of the more ardent Whigs, whose feelings were voiced by the vigorous outburst of Joseph Hawley: "Can we subsist—did any state ever subsist—without exterminating traitors? It is amazingly wonderful that, having no capital punishment for our intestine enemies, we have not been utterly ruined before now."

1775. Tories under Gov. Dunmore defeated in Virginia.

1776. Tories disarmed by order of Congress "as unworthy Americans who take the part of the oppressors." Tories defeated and royal authority overthrown in North Carolina. Flight of 1,100 Tories to Halifax, on the evacuation of Boston. Expulsion of a typical Tory parson from York, Pa., for persisting in public prayer for the king.

1778. Toryism made more odious by its massacres in Wyoming and Cherry valleys.

1779. Toryism and royalty made yet more odious by the injuries inflicted on American seabord cities by the British fleet.

1780. Tories and their British allies defeated, and ten of the most virulent and cruel of the Tory leaders hung, in South Carolina, by patriot volunteers.

1781. Tory hopes blasted by the surrender of Cornwallis, and themselves left to the mercy of their late opponents, except that a few of the most obnoxious were suffered to escape the vengeance of the patriots in a despatch vessel.

When the British troops finally quit the shores of the United States, many Tories removed across the border into Canada and New Brunswick. After some years the British parliament voted them an indemnity of $15,500,000, and several received "annuities, half-pay as military officers, large grants of lands, and shared with other subjects in the patronage of the crown." Some of the less prominent remained in the United States and were soon lost sight of among the loyal masses.

Liberty, Union and Independence assured in Peace. Divergence of Political Views among the Patriots. The Confederation Government, 1781–89.

1781. A French Fleet in aid of the United States drove the British from Chesapeake Bay. Virtual close of the war by the surrender of Cornwallis, Oct. 19.

1782. Independence of the United States recognized by Holland. Suggestion of kingship spurned by Washington, "My eyes have grown dim," said he, "in the service of my country; but I have never doubted her justice." An emblem of National sovereignty adopted by Congress in the great seal of the United States and its motto E pluribus Unum. The king authorized by parliament, in May, to make peace. Elias Bondinot, of New Jersey, made president of Congress, Nov. 4. Preliminary treaty of peace with Great Britain, Nov. 30.

1783. Independence of the United States recognized by Sweden, Denmark, Spain and Russia, successively. Cessation of hostilities proclaimed by Washington. Independence of the United States established by a definite treaty of peace with Great Britain, Sept. 3. Evacuation of New York, their last foothold, by the British. Final emigration of Tories. Surrender of his commission by Washington. A State constitution, with abolition of slavery, adopted by New Hampshire, to take effect in June, 1784.

The later presidents of Congress, and temporary capitals. Thomas Mifflin, chosen president of Congress, Nov. 3, was succeeded by Richard Henry Lee, Nov. 30, 1784; Nathaniel Graham, June 6, 1786; Arthur St. Clair, Feb. 2, 1787; and Cyrus Griffin, Jan. 22, 1788.

Congress removed to Princeton, Jnne 30, and to Annapolis, Nov. 26, 1783; to Trenton, Nov. 1, 1784; to New York, Jan. 11, 1785, which was the oapital of the United States until 1790, where it remained until the establishment of the permanent capital at Washington in 1800.

State-rights Whigs, as they were named a few years later,—State-sovereignty, or State-supremacy Whigs, they might perhaps more appropriately have been called—may be said to have had control of the government under the Articles of Confederation, though, party lines not being strictly drawn, men of contrary opinion were not excluded from place or power. The central government, as previously stated, was regarded by them as a delegated authority, with the chief elements of sovereignty reserved to each State, on which account the members of the party were sometimes called Particularists. Favorable to the individual States as was this form of government, they had hesitated "to conclude the compact, which was to unite the strength, wealth and councils of the whole." That their views were purely patriotic there is no reason to doubt, and that they sprang from a jealous vigilance to preserve their dearly bought liberties and not from any wish to needlessly enfeeble the central authority, is evidenced by the fact that they restricted with a like rigidity the powers of the State executives. As was observed by a French contemporary, "the mere name of authority inspired terror." They held that the largest measure of local self-government was the best safeguard against oppression. The several States had established their governments, exercising all the essential rights of real sovereignty, and it was no easy task to induce them to surrender any large measure of those powers to constitute a strong central authority which all the bitter experiences of the past had taught them to regard as possessed of inherent tendencies dangerous to liberty. The Continental Congress itself was nothing else than an assemblage of delegates commissioned by the several colonial assemblies and afterwards by the State legislatures, without even a semblance of direct popular or national representation. Their conception of the government was of a loose confederation of the States with a carefully restricted central delegated authority for the more convenient discharge of foreign relations and some general purposes affecting the internal relations of the States, but without possessing any of the essential attributes of sovereignty, properly so called. When, in 1783, Gen. Greene was soliciting relief for his half-fed soldiers from the legislature of South Carolina, a member exclaimed: "A Cromwell was dictating to free men, threatening them with a mutinied army; trying to build up Congress on the ruins of State rights."

The divergence of political views between the two sections of American patriots, the State-rights, and the strong-government Whigs (see below) became more decided on the establishment of peace with England, and the recognition of the independence of the United States by the leading nations of the world. The period from 1784 to 1787 was much occupied in the discussion of their opposing theories, with an increasing preponderance of opinion in favor of a stronger government than was supplied by the Articles of Confederation. There was thus gradually developed a desire for a constitutional convention to reconsider and amend the existing form of government.

The first definite conception and proposal of a constitutional convention dates back a few years. July 19, 1782, on motion of General Schuyler, (at the suggestion of his son-in-law, Alexander Hamilton) in the New York legislature, it was resolved: "That the foregoing important end [the collection of the taxes due the general government, by its own officers] can never be attained by partial deliberations of the States separately; but that it is essential to the common welfare that there should be, as soon as possible, a conference of the whole on the subject; and that it would be advisable, for this purpose, to propose to Congress to recommend, and to each State to adopt, the manner of assembling a general convention of the States, specially authorized to revise and amend the Confederation, reserving a right to the respective legislatures to ratify their determinations." But the project lay in abeyance several years.

"A new system of government which should act, not on the States, but directly on individuals, and vest in Congress full powers to carry its laws into effect," was suggested by Noah Webster in a pamphlet issued 1784.

In 1785, commissioners appointed by Maryland and Virginia to form some equitable agreement for the peaceable navigation of the waters common to both States, found themselves unable to establish a satisfactory settlement, whereupon the legislature of Virginia invited the other States to send delegates to Annapolis, Md., the ensuing year, to determine how existing defects in the government in regard to inter-state commercial relations could best be remedied. In 1785 Washington deplored that through the "illiberality, jealousy and local policy of the States," the Confederation was sinking, "in the eyes of Europe, into contempt."

In September, 1786, the delegates of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey and New York assembled at Annapolis to deliberate on the subject indicated The result of their deliberations was that they advised Congress to call a convention to revise the Articles of Confederation.

The permanency of the Confederation was meanwhile seriously menaced. A project of separation into three confederacies was entertained by some. Insurgents in western North Carolina formed the short-lived State of Frankland. There was an insurrection against Pennsylvania in the Wyoming Valley. The territory of Maine projected a revolt from Massachusetts and the formation of a State. At Exeter, New Hampshire, a mob demanded of the legislature the issue of paper money and a remission of taxes. In December, what has become known as Shays' Rebellion broke out in Massachusetts. It was due to the general poverty and distress arising from the heavy taxes occasioned by the late war, and was precipitated by the attempt to legally collect those debts, by forced sales in consequence of which many worthy people were threatened with the loss of their homesteads. Taxation was growled at, or resisted in other parts of the country. Debt weighed heavily on all classes. Among other results of this widespread distress and discontent was the direction of the thoughts of many to the lack of adequate powers in the Confederation to provide for the payment of the war debt or secure the public peace.

In February, 1787, Congress passed a resolution calling on the States to send delegates to a general Convention for "the sole and express purpose of revising the Articles of Confederation, and reporting to Congress and the several legislatures such alterations and provisions therein as should, when agreed to in Congress and confirmed by the States, render the Federal Constitution adequate to the exigences of the government and the preservation of the Union."

Strong Government, or Federal Sovereignty Whigs is an appropriate designation of the opponents of the State-rights Whigs. In the first years of the Confederation government, they were in a decided minority, but as the weakness of that form became more manifest, the party grew in numbers, or, rather (as there was no party organization on either side), the number of those who entertained the views indicated by that name, was largely increase They were dissatisfied with the limited powers entruste to Congress, and the consequent inefficiency of its executive measures, justly complaining of a constitution government that made the central authority weak at hom and despised abroad. "There ought to be a principle," said Hamilton, "capable of resisting the popular current. .... It "is this, that there must be a permanent will. They wished to endow the central government, throug the voluntary concessions of the States, with the attribute of sovereignty in the exercise of the functions with which it was charged for the welfare of the whole people. "A thirst for power," wrote Washington, "and the bantling (I liked to have said the monster) sovereignty, which ha taken such fast hold of the States individually, will, when joined by the many whose personal consequence in the line of State politics will in a measure be annihilated, form a strong phalanx against it."

These were perhaps extreme views, but all Strong-government Whigs desired a complete revision of the Articles of Confederation, regarding them as utterly inadequate to the purposes for which they were adopted. They claimed that the permanence of free institutions was dependent on an extension of the powers of the central government, and that without such enlargement it would be impossible to preserve the union of the States, command the respect of foreign nations, or form with these equal commercial treaties. "We are one nation to-day," said Washington, "and thirteen to morrow. Who will treat with us on these terms?" "If the American States," suggested an English writer, "choose to send consuls, receive them, and send a consul to each State. Each State will soon enter into all necessary regulations with the consul, and this is the whole that is necessary."

"The United States in Congress," said a native critic of the Articles of Confederation, "have exclusive power for the following purposes without being able to excute one of them:

"1. They make and conclude treaties, but can only recommend the observance of them.

"2. They may appoint ambassadors, but cannot defray even the expenses of their tables.

"3. They may borrow in their own name on the faith of the Union, but cannot pay a dollar.

"4. They may coin money, but they cannot purchase an ounce of bullion.

"5. They may make war and determine what number of troops are necessary, but cannot raise a single soldier.

"6. In short, they may declare everything, but can do nothing."

The Formation and Adoption of the Constitution, 1787--89. Federalists and Anti-Federalists.

The Federal Convention, now more generally known, from the result of its labors, as the Constitutional Convention, met in Philadelphia, in May, 1787, in response to the call of Congress three months before, every State except Rhode Island being represented. It was organized by the election of Washington as presiding officer, and its deliberations extended from May 25 to September 17.

In the first formal speech, by Edmund Randolph, it was suggested that "a national government ought to be established, consisting of a supreme legislature, executive and judiciary." Originally convened to revise the Articles of Confederation, they found so much to change that they concluded to form a new Constitution. As the result of their labors, by a provision of the original call, was to be submitted to conventions of the several States for adoption, they felt at liberty to make that departure from the first design, and signalized it by the well-known preamble to the Constitution: "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of North America." The instrument thus announced, and by one of its provisions requiring for its ratification only the adoption by nine States, founded a free representative democracy, based on univeral suffrage, "a government of the people, by the people, and for the people," with the powers of government divided into three independent divisions: the legislature or Congress, the executive or President, and the judiciary or Supreme Court, with freedom of religion, of speech and of the press, trial by jury, the right of every citizen to petition, and to bear arms, and many other important provisions "to secure the blessings of liberty."

The Constitution was signed by thirty-nine of the fifty-five delegates composing the Convention, but of the other sixteen some were absent and only three of those present refused to sign. The State-rights Whigs, or Confederationists, and Strong-government Whigs, or Nationalists, (these in greater number as being the promoters of the desired change) went into the Convention with little prospect of agreement. But as all were anxious to better the existing form, moderate men of both parties, with the aid of a middle class who were not specially committed to either, were enabled by compromises and concessions to harmonize the jarring elements and effect the desired end, a union or federation of the States, possessed in its own right of independent and dominant sovereign powers, but without prejudice to the local domination or sovereignty of the States within their respective borders.

he Northwest Territory. During the session of the Convention an act, only less momentous than the Constitution in its influence on liberty, was passed by Congress under this title: "An ordinance for the government of the territory of the United States northwest of the Ohio," in which, among other valuable provisions, it was ordained that "There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted."

he Draft of the Constitution was sent forward Congress, which on September 28, 1787, "Resolved, That the said report [the Constitution], with the resolution and letter accompanying the same, be transmitted to the several legislatures, in order to be submitted to a convention of delegates chosen in each State by the people thereof, in conformity to the resolves of the Convention made and provided in that case."

The division of parties now became more decided and new names began to prevail, based on their relations to the new Constitution. During the debates in the Federal Convention and in the several State conventions which were called for its adoption, those who favored it were called Federalists, while those who opposed were from that circumstance known as Anti-federalists, successors, respectively, of the Strong-government and State-rights Whigs already described.

The new government assured. The Constitution (Art. VII) provided that, "The ratification by nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same." It was ratified by the States, as follows: Delaware, December 7, Pennsylvania, December 12, New Jersey, December 18, of that year; Georgia, January 2, Connecticut, January 9, Massachusetts, February 6, Maryland, April 28, South Carolina, May 23, New Hampshire (the ninth State), June 21, Virginia, June 26, New York, July 26, 1788, North Carolina, November 25, 1789, and Rhode Island, May 29, 1790.

September 18, 1788, Congress appointed the first Wednesday in January, 1789, for the choosing of presidential electors, the first Wednesday in February for casting the ballots for president and vice-president, and the first Wednesday in March "for commencing proceedings under the Constitution," but owing to delays in coming together, the first Congress did not have a quorum until April 6, and the president was not inaugurated until April 30, 1789.

POLITICAL PARTIES FROM 1789 TO THE PRESENT TIME.

9 to 1793—GEORGE WASHINGTON, President.

States voting, 10; their electoral vote, 73; not cast, 4.

FEDERALIST;
Electoral vote, 56.

The sixty-nine electoral votes of both parties were cast for Washington as the first choice of all for president. "In you," said the Senate in reply to his inaugural, "all parties confide." He was politically in accord with the Federalists, but his personal fitness and great services made him the universal choice. He reciprocated the confidence of his political opponents by selecting his cabinet partly from among them and by a studied and sincere impartiality. Party lines are, however, clearly recognizable in the choice of vice-president. John Adams, fully identified with the Federalist party, not only received thirty-four votes, the greatest number cast for any one candidate for that office, but of the remaining thirty-five, twenty-two were cast for other Federalists, leaving only thirteen electoral votes to represent the strength of the Anti-federalist party.

This Federalist victory was in fact but the continuance of that already won in the Constitutional Convention and the ten State conventions which had adopted the new form of government. They alone could be entrusted with carrying it into effect, while their opponents might be trusted to keep a watchful eye on their avowed purpose to enlarge its scope. In their leading measures the Federalists evinced a decided tendency to increase the functions and powers of the general government, as well by new statutes to that end, as by such interpretation of the Constitution—implied and constructive grants of central authority—as favored their views. Hence they and their successors in that line of thought are known as Loose, or Broad Constructionists.

The Federalists denied the adaptability of "the masses" for self-government, and regarded them as inclined to oppose the rights of property as well as the pretensions of a superior or ruling class, to which the Federalists considered themselves as belonging. The party comprised prosperous merchants, capitalists, large land-owners, theorists and thinkers who imagined the British government to be so nearly perfect that they were more desirous of imitating than improving it, and those distinguished for inherited prestige and social standing. They lacked faith in the people.

ANTI-FEDERALIST;
Electoral vote, 13.
No opposing candidate for the presidency.

The Anti-federalist was a short-lived party. They were known as Particularists and State-rights Whigs until the meeting of the Constitutional Convention, May 14, 1787, but upon the acceptance of the Constitution by Rhode Island, May 29, 1790, that designation was no longer applicable. Indeed it was never appropriate, and had always been protested against. They did not oppose a league or union, nor the Constitution, but only the Federalist views of these. There were no truer patriots than their leaders. But the objectionable epithet continued to be applied until they adopted the more significant name of Republicans.

FEDERALIST;
Electoral vote, 77.

Several of the more prominent leaders of the Federalist party regarded the Constitution merely as the best that could then be "extorted from the grinding necessity of a reluctant nation." "The Federal government," said Hamilton, "may then triumph over the State governments, and reduce them to entire subordination, dividing the larger States into smaller districts," and be "able to protect the men of property from the depredations which the democratic spirit is apt to make on property." In 1792 he characterized the Constitution as "a shilly-shally thing of mere milk and water, and only good as a step to something better;" and in 1802 he was "still laboring to prop the frail and worthless fabric." "State attachments and State importance," said Gouverneur Morris, "have been the bane of this country. We cannot annihilate them, but we may perhaps take out the teeth of the serpents."

Party lines were distinctly drawn between them and their opponents, the Republicans, whom they called Democratic Republicans, and the French party, because of the odium then attaching to the word democrat by reason of the excesses of the Jacobins, or radical democrats of the French Revolution. The Federalists, on the other hand, were characterized by their opponents, with equal freedom, as Aristocratic and Monarchical Republicans, and the British party.

REPUBLICAN;
Electoral vote, 55.
No opposing candidate for the presidency.

The Republican party of 1792 may be said to consist of such persons as, though adhering to the strict construction views of the late Anti-federalists and the State-rights views of these and their predecessors, the Particularists, had determined to give the Constitution a fair trial and due obedience, while resisting the "implied and constructive" theory of the Federalists. "I own," said Jefferson, the leader and founder of the party, "that I am not a friend to a very energetic government; it is always oppressive."

Among the leading principles of the party were, the sovereignty, if not the supremacy of the States, without prejudice however to the limited sovereignty of the Federal government in its own sphere; the value of local self-government as a safeguard of free institutions as well as an economy in internal administration. Their aim was to foster simple and inexpensive, rather than showy and complicated forms of administration. They claimed that thus had independence been won, and that thus it could be best maintained, and prosperity and happiness be more widely distributed among a self-governing people.

1797 to 1801—JOHN ADAMS, President.

FEDERALIST;
Electoral vote, 71.

The leaning of the party to strong-government views and its partiality to the British in the European conflicts of the period culminated in the introduction and enactment, through its influence, of the Alien and Sedition laws of 1798. One required fourteen years' residence before naturalization; a second authorized the president to "order any alien whom he should judge to be dangerous to the peace and liberties of America to depart from the United States;" a third provided that, upon declaration of war against, or invasion of the United States, all former subjects of the hostile power might be arrested, secured or removed at the discretion of the president, requiring only the formality of a proclamation. Though worded with careful comprehensiveness, these Alien laws were chiefly directed against the French, because of their ultrademocracy, and British refugees in America. The Sedition Act made it a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not to exceed $5,000, and imprisonment not to exceed five years, to combine against government measures or officials; and subjecting to fine and imprisonment any one who should print or publish "any false, scandalous and malicious writings against the government of the United States, or either House of Congress, or the President, with intent to defame them, or to bring them into contempt or disrepute." These measures justified the charges of their opponents and lost the party the confidence of the people.

REPUBLICAN;
Electoral vote, 68.
Thomas Jefferson, candidate for the presidency.

The current views of the party are fairly indicated by the following extracts, of two years' later date:

From the Kentucky Resolutions of 1798: "That the principle and construction contended for by sundry of the State legislatures, that the General government is the exclusive judge of the extent of the powers delegated to it, stop not short of despotism—since the discretion of those who administer government and not the Constitution, would be the measure of their powers. That the several States who formed that instrument, being sovereign and independent, have the unquestionable right to judge of the infraction; and that a nullification by those sovereignties of all unauthorized acts done under cover of that instrument, is the rightful remedy; that this Commonwealth does under the most deliberate reconsideration declare that the said Alien and Sedition Laws are, in their opinion, palpable violations of the said Constitution."

From Virginia Resolutions of 1798: "This Assembly doth especially and peremptorily declare that it views the powers of the Federal government, as limited by the plain sense and intention of the instrument constituting that compact, as no further valid than they are authorized by the grants enumerated in that compact; and that in case of a deliberate, palpable and dangerous exercise of other powers, not granted by said compact, the States who are parties thereto have the right and are in duty bound to interpose for arresting the progress of the evil and for maintaining, within their respective limits, the authorities, rights and liberties appertaining to them.

"The General Assembly doth also express its deep regret, that a spirit has, in sundry instances, been manifested by the Federal government to enlarge its powers by forced constructions of the constitutional charter which defines them .... so as to consolidate the States by degrees into one sovereignty, the obvious tendency and inevitable result of which would be to transform the present republican system of the United States into an absolute, or at best a mixed monarchy.

"The General Assembly doth particularly protest against the palpable and alarming infractions of the Constitution in the two late cases of the Alien and Sedition Acts."

1801 to 1805—THOMAS JEFFERSON, President.

States voting, 16; total electoral vote, 138.

REPUBLICAN;
Electoral vote, 73.

Platform of 1800 abridged: 1. "Inviolable preservation of the Federal constitution, according to the true sense in which it was adopted by the States. 2. Opposition to monarchizing its features. 3. Preservation to the States of the powers not yielded by them to the Union. 4. A rigorously frugal administration of the government....and resistance to all measures looking to a multiplication of officers and salaries. 5. Reliance for internal defense solely upon the militia, till actual invasion....and opposition to the policy of a standing army in time of peace. 6. Free commerce with all nations, political connection with none, and little or no diplomatic establishment. 7. Opposition to linking ourselves by new treaties with the quarrels of Europe. 8. Freedom of religion. 9. Freedom of speech and of the press. 10. Liberal naturalization laws. 11. Encouragement of science and the arts to the end that the American people may perfect their independence of all foreign monopolies, institutions and influences."

From Jefferson's inaugural, 1801: "I will compress them ['The essential principles, of our government,'] within the narrowest compass they will bear":

"Equal and exact justice to all men, of whatever State or persuasion, religious or political; peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none; the support of the State governments in all their rights as the most competent administrations for our domestic concerns and the surest bulwark against anti-republican tendencies; the preservation of the general government, in its whole constitutional vigor, as the sheet-anchor of our peace at home and safety abroad; a jealous care of the right of election by the people—(Continued under Jefferson's second term.)

FEDERALIST;
Electoral vete, 65.
John Adams, candidate.

President Adams was held responsible by many prominent Federalists for the injury done to the party by the Alien and Sedition laws, and his known desire for re-election alienated others who felt that party success was jeopardized by his candidacy. Against the Sedition Act especially, Hamilton, the most popular of the party's leaders, had vainly remonstrated. "Let us" said he, "not establish a tyranny. Energy is a very different thing from violence. If we take no false step, we shall be essentially united; but if we push things to the extreme, we shall then give to parties body and solidity." Hamilton had long been estranged from Adams; and the latter was regarded by many as an unwise party leader, because of personal peculiarities as well as public measures.

The party was defeated by 65 to 73 electoral votes, and never recovered political ascendency; but it had done good work and deserved well of the country. It had solidified the Union by the Federal Constitution, a work which otherwise might not have been achieved but by a slow political evolution. It had funded the public debt and established the finances of the new nation on a creditable basis; had put into practical operation the complex machinery of the new government, and had added the first ten Amendments to the Constitution, having shown an unusual degree of political courage in accepting them from the opposition.

States voting, 17; total electoral vote, 176.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 162. (Continued from Jefferson's first term),—"a mild and safe correction of abuses which are lopped by the sword of revolution where peaceable remedies are unprovided; absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority—the vital principle of republics, from which there is no appeal but to force, the vital principle and immediate parent of despotism; a well disciplined militia—our best reliance in peace, and for the first moments of war, till regulars may relieve them; the supremacy of the civil over the military authority; economy in the public expense, that labor may be lightly burdened; the honest payment of our debts and sacred preservation of the public faith; encouragement of agriculture, and of commerce as its handmaid; the diffusion of information and the arraignment of all abuses at the bar of public reason; freedom of religion; freedom of the press; freedom of persons under the protection of the habeas corpus; and trial by juries impartially selected—these principles form the bright constellation which has gone before us and guided our steps through an age of revolution and reformation. The wisdom of our sages and the blood of our heroes have been devoted to their attainment. They should be the creed of our political faith—the text of civil instruction—the touchstone by which to try the services of those we trust; and should we wander from them in moments of error or alarm, let us hasten to retrace our steps, and to regain the road which alone leads to peace, liberty and safety."

From Jefferson's Letters, in 1801, in relation to removals from office: .... "I lament sincerely that unessential differences of opinion should ever have been deemed sufficient to interdict half the society from the rights and the blessings of self-government, to proscribe them as unworthy of every trust. It would have been to me a circumstance of great relief, had I found a moderate participation of office in the hands of the majority. I would gladly have left to time and accident to raise them to their just share. But their total exclusion calls for prompter correction. I shall correct the procedure, but, that done, return with joy to that state of things when the only question concerning a candidate shall be: Is he honest? Is he capable? Is he faithful to the Constitution?"

"Some removals I know must be made. They must be as few as possible, done gradually, and bottomed on some malversation or inherent disqualification" .... "officers who have been guilty of gross abuses of office, such as marshals packing juries, &c., I shall now remove, as my predecessor ought in justice to have done. The instances will be few, and governed by strict rule, not party passion. The right of opinion shall suffer no invasion from me." .... "The measures we shall pursue and propose for the amelioration of the public affairs will be so confessedly salutary as to unite all men not monarchists in principle."

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 14. Charles C. Pinckney, candidate. Through dissensions among the leaders, as well as by reason of the great political sagacity of Jefferson, who has perhaps never been surpassed as a party leader, the Federalists had sunk into a hopeless minority.

1809 to 1813—JAMES MADISON, President.

States voting, 17; total electoral vote, 176; not cast, 1.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 123. The party continued in the line marked out by the genius of Jefferson, and no one was more willing to accept his guidance than the new president. The government had been administered for eight years under Republican principles to the general satisfaction of the people, and there were no grounds for a marked change of policy. The disturbed relations with England remained unimproved, but Jefferson and Madison were equally loath to proceed to extremities by declaring war. The Embargo Act of the former administration had some influence in decreasing the Republican majority in the electoral college, but a schism in the party and the less popularity of the candidate had probably more influence in producing that result. The ascendency of the party throughout the nation was not, however, seriously impaired; nor were any new principles of party politics introduced. Even its bitterest opponents had been compelled to recognize its patriotism and fidelity to the Constitution.

Madison personally had been a wise and zealous promoter and defender of that instrument, and his influence in molding it to its existing form was second to none. He has, indeed, been styled "the father of the Constitution." "I hold for a fundamental point," said he, in April, 1787, "that an individual independence of the States is utterly irreconcilable with the idea of aggregate sovereignty. I think, at the same time, that a consolidation of the States into a simple republic is not less unattainable than it would be inexpedient. Let it be tried whether any middle ground can be taken."

"Let the national government be armed with a positive and complete authority in all cases where uniform measures are necessary, as in trade .... Let it also retain the powers which it now possesses .... Let this national supremacy be extended also to the judiciary .... The legislative department may be divided into two branches .... A national executive will also be necessary .... An article .... guaranteeing the States against internal as well as external dangers."

George Clinton, candidate of a section of the Republican party, received six of the nineteen electoral votes of his own State, New York.

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 47. Charles C. Pinckney, candidate. The Federalists being in opposition since 1801, their views had become somewhat modified. They were no longer strenuous advocates of the "implied and constructive" powers of the Federal government. They had opposed the purchase of Louisiana on the ground, among others, that the Constitution did not entrust Congress with such powers; and they railed at the Embargo Act, as not included in the power to regulate commerce. "This measure rekindled the old fires of party. He that was for the Embargo was a 'Democrat;' he that was against it, a 'Federalist.' It was a wall between the parties .... in every State, city, county, town, village and hamlet .... and in every class and condition of the people."

1813 to 1817—JAMES MADISON, President—Second Term.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 128. The Republicans had entered on the campaign of 1808 with the avowal that "its only choice lay between the embargo and war, and war should be avoided as long as possible;" and Madison had endeavored by diplomacy and remonstrance to avert a rupture with England. This course having proved ineffective, and the insults to the nation having grown more intolerable because of his forbearance, the leaders of the party demanded that he should yield to the wishes of the people, and the declaration of war against Great Britain was approved by him June 18th, 1812. The presidential campaign of the year hinged on that measure and some minor domestic conditions: Sectional jealousy of Virginia, as "the mother of presidents;" the antagonism of a peace faction which on religious grounds deprecated war with Great Britain, "the bulwark of Protestantism" and "the world's last hope;" and the partisanship of the Federalists who opposed it as an administration measure. The president having committed himself to war, was a strenuous advocate and promoter by word and work of all that it implied, and was supported by the great body of the people, though some of the New England States refused to supply their quotas of troops, and a few misguided Federalists gave aid and comfort to the enemy.

Otherwise the political views of the party underwent no serious change, and the following brief analysis of the Constitution by Madison shows his appreciation of the unique and nicely-balanced American system of government which secures sovereignty to the Federal as well as the State authorities within their respective spheres. "The Constitution," said he, "is in strictness neither a national nor a federal constitution, but a composition of both. In its foundation it is federal, not national; in the sources from which the ordinary powers of the government are drawn it is partly federal and partly national; in the operation of these powers it is national, not federal; in the extent of them, again, it is federal, not national; and, finally, in the authoritative mode of introducing amendments " is neither wholly federal nor wholly national."

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 89. De Witt Clinton, candidate. The supporters of Clinton were partly Federalists and partly disaffected Republicans, the coalition being designated Clintonians.

Clintonian Platform Abridged: 1. Opposition to the congressional caucus system of nomination of presidential candidates; 2, to an official regency self-constituted to prescribe tenets of political faith and tests of political orthodoxy; 3, to a monopoly of the hig offices by particular States, and especially to the co uance of a Virginian in the presidency; 4, to the tinuance of Mr. Madison in an office which, in v of our pending difficulties with Great Britain, requ an incumbent of greater decision, energy and effic cy; 5, to the lingering inadequacy of preparation the war; 6, Averment of the existing necessity of plac the country in a condition for aggressive action for conquest of Canada; 7, Advocacy of the election of Witt Clinton.

Hartford Convention of Federalists rec mended the adoption, by the five New England States r resented, of measures: 1, To protect their citizens fr the Federal military draft; 2, their own coasts with th own milita; 3, to organize their militia with full cont by the respective States; 4, to labor for amendments the Constitution—1, to ignore slaves as a basis of repres tation; 2, to require two-thirds vote of both Houses admission of new States; 3, to restrict Congress in layi embargoes to sixty days; 4, to require two-thirds vote of b Houses to decree commercial non-intercourse with forei nations; 5, the same, to declare aggressive war; 6, to clude naturalized citizens from Federal offices; 7, to li the president to one term, and to exclude from the imm diate succession a citizen of the same State.

1817 to 1821—JAMES MONROE, President.

States voting, 19; total electoral vote, 221; not cast, 4.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 183. No marked change of party vie characterized the election of Mo roe. He was recognized as t natural successor of Madison, as the latter was Jefferson. The happy termination of the war had give the party such a hold on popular confidence that th could afford to be more tolerant of their opponent views and even to engraft some of them on their ow principles. An effort was made to wipe out party line and the president's wishes in that direction were re-i forced by the advice of Gen. Jackson, "to extermina that monster called party spirit." "The chief magistra of a great and powerful nation," he added, "shoul never indulge in party feelings. His conduct should b liberal and disinterested; always bearing in mind, that h acts for the whole and not a part of the community." O his tour of inspection of national defenses, the presdent i reply to an address at Kennebunk, Maine, spoke as follow "You are pleased to express a confident hope that a spirit o mutual conciliation may be one of the blessings which ma result from my administration. This indeed would be a eminent blessing, and I pray it may be realized. Nothin but union is wanting to make us a great people The pres ent time affords the happiest presage that this union is fas consummating. It cannot be otherwise; I daily see greate proofs of it. The further I advance in my progress in th country, the more I perceive that we are all Americans— that we compose but one family—that our republican insti tutions will be supported and perpetuated by the unite zeal and patriotism of all.. Nothing could give me greate satisfaction than to behold a perfect union among ourselve —a union which is necessary to restore to social intercours its former charms, and to render our happiness, as a nation, unmixed and complete. To promote this desirabl result requires no compromise of principle, and I promis to give it my continued attention, and my best endeavors.'

As early as 1785 Monroe had favored an enlargement o the powers of Congress under the Articles of Confedera tion, and although distrustful of what he deemed the too liberal grant of power to the Federal government by the Constitution, and its too limited recognition of the rights of the citizen, upon the adoption of the first ten amendments to that instrument guaranteeing those rights, he became its consistent supporter, and during his term, like his predecessor, adopted some of the measures that were originally characteristic of Federalist views. He was, however, always mindful of the principle of popular sovereignty. "It is only," said he in his inaugural, "when the people become ignorant and corrupt—when they degenerate into a populace—that they are incapable of exercising sovereignty." From these causes his administration became known as "the era of good feeling."

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 34. Rufus King, candidate. The party organization was continued until this election, but its standard-bearer was only the leader of a forlorn hope. It had forfeited whatever hold it had retained through the two administrations of Jefferson and the first of Madison on the confidence of the people, by its factious antagonism to the War of 1812–15, and by the proceedings of the Hartford Convention of 1814. The strong-government principles for which it stood had been proved unnecessary by the happy issue of a war conducted by their political opponents.

1821 to 1825—JAMES MONROE, President—Second Term.

States voting, 23; total electoral vote, 235; votes not cast, 3.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 232. The president's policy had been so wise and liberal that the "era of good feeling" had been fully established at the period of his second election. By a process natural selection in politics some of the more valuable nciples of the Federalists had been adopted, and the publican party of the period embraced "loose," as well "strict constructionists," while awaiting a new differen- ion of political issues of sufficient importance to form bases of new parties. The president had increased army and navy in numbers and efficiency, strengthened national defenses, encouraged commerce, favored the ited States bank, and promoted the general welfare by ny prudent measures regardless of their origin, whether deralist or Republican. Somewhat similarly the Fed- alist party before its final dissolution had changed places th its old antagonists, having become "strict construc- nists" of the powers of the general government in the e war.

It was a period when, says Benton, "the word economy d an existence in fact as well as in name. It was my first ar in Congress ; and while economy was claimed as a dis- ictive Republican virtue (for the name of Democrat had t been taken), I owe it to candor and to justice to say at I saw the same regard for economy in the Federal embers (for neither had they at that time changed their me), that I did in the Republican. Less than nine mil- ns a year for working the government at that time."

. . . . "The citizens of the United States cherish senti- ents the most friendly in favor of the liberty and happi- ess of their fellow-men on the other side of the Atlantic. wars of the European powers, in matters relating to emselves, we have never taken any part, nor does it com- ort with our policy to do so. It is only when our rights e invaded, or seriously menaced, that we resent injuries, make preparation for our defense. The political system the allied powers is essentially different in this respect om that of America. The difference proceeds from that hich exists in our respective governments ; and to the efense of our own, which has been achieved by the loss so much blood and treasure, and matured by the wis- om of our most enlightened citizens and under which we ave enjoyed unexampled felicity, this whole nation is de- oted. We owe it, therefore, to candor and the amicable lations existing between the United States and those owers to declare that we should consider any attempt on eir part to extend their system to any portion of this emisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With e existing colonies or dependencies of any European ower we have not interfered ; but with the governments which have declared their independence, and maintained , and whose independence we have, on great considera- on and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not iew any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them, r controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any uropean power, in any other light than as the manifesta- on of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States. . . . Our policy in regard to Europe, which was adopted t an early stage of the wars which have so long agitated at quarter of the globe, nevertheless remains the same, which is, not to interfere in the internal concerns of any of s powers ; to consider the government de facto as the le- itimate government for us ; to cultivate friendly relations with it, and to preserve those relations by a frank, firm and anly policy ; meeting, in all instances, the just claims of very power, submitting to injuries from none. But in egard to these continents [North and South America] cir- umstances are eminently and conspicuously different. It s impossible that the allied powers should extend their olitical system to any portion ot either continent without ndangering our peace and happiness."

John Quincy Adams, candidate of a small faction of Republicans and former Federalists, prevented the reelection of Monroe from being unanimous.

1825 to 1829—JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, President.

States voting, 24; total electoral vote, 261; not cast, 1.

REPUBLICAN;
Electoral vote, 261.
Popular vote, 362,062.

Republican principles, somewhat modified by the responsibilities of actual administration of the government for a quarter of a century as well as by the influences of the opposition, had now gained complete ascendency. Soon after the establishment of the government under the Constitution, and indeed while its adoption was under consideration, "we broke," said Jefferson, "into two parties, each wishing to give the government a different direction ; the one—the Republican—to strengthen the most popular branch; the other—the Federal—the more permanent branches and to extend their permanence." The contests of a generation had ended, leaving the former party without organized opposition. There were four candidates for the presidency in 1824, all Republicans, and no political issues, whence the campaign was nicknamed, rather disrespectfully, as "the scrub race for the presidency." No candidate having received a majority, the contest was carried into the House of Representatives, which elected Mr. Adams, who had received only 84 electoral votes and a popular vote of 105,321. He might be characterized as the Eastern or New England candidate, and was backed by the prestige of his father, the influence of the unorganized Federalists, and the more effective aid of the "loose-constructionist Republicans" under the leadership of Henry Clay.

Andrew Jackson—Electoral vote, 99; Popular vote, 155,872.

Andrew Jackson might be characterized as the military-prestige candidate, and he received the largest number of electoral votes, but was defeated in the House of Representatives by an alleged coalition of the friends of Henry Clay with his own partisans. The representatives of districts which had given a majority for Jackson were considered to have betrayed their trust in voting for Adams in the House, and though their action was legal they lost caste with their constituents and were relegated to private life at the ensuing Congressional election, when friends of Jackson were very generally chosen. Thus were public men taught to recognize that the preferences of the people could not be disregarded with impunity, even where Constitutional rights only were exercised. It also led to the abolition of the caucus system of nominating presidential candidates. The first choice of the people was not the nominee of the caucus, and this earlier attempt of the same Congress to dictate the choice of the people was so effectively rebuked that congressional caucus nominations were replaced by the Convention system. The caucus was characterized by Rufus King as "a new, extraordinary, self-created central power, stronger than the power of the Constitution, which has risen up at the seat of government."

Wm. H. Crawford—Electoral vote, 41; Popular vote, 44,282.

William Harris Crawford was the candidate of the Congressional caucus. He was Secretary of the Treasury at the time of his nomination, had previously been Secretary of War, Minister to France, and a Senator from Georgia. Bred a lawyer he entered public life at the age of thirty-one as a member of the State legislature and while in the United States senate was regarded as its ablest member. His chance of winning the presidency was marred by being the nominee of the caucus at a time when it had begun to be unpopular, and when its claims to the confidence of the people were antagonized by three rival candidates of great local and personal popularity.

Henry Clay—Electoral vote, 37; Popular vote, 46,587.

Henry Clay, the fourth presidential candidate, represented the "loose-constructionist" wing of the great party to which all the candidates belonged, and was personally and locally popular in his section. When defeated in the electoral college and barred from election by the House as the candidate receiving the least number of votes, he threw his influence in favor of Adams and secured his election. In regard to his action in the matter there is no reason to doubt the truth of his own statement made to a friend, Jan. 28, 1825 : "My position in regard to the presidential contest is highly critical, and such as to leave me no path on which I can move without censure. I have pursued in regard to it the rule which I always observe in the discharge of my public duty. I have interrogated my conscience as to what I ought to do, and it tells me I ought to vote for Mr. Adams."

1829 to 1833—ANDREW JACKSON, President.

States voting, 24; total electoral vote, 261.

DEMOCRATIC;
Electoral vote, 178;
Popular vote, 647,231.

During the previous administration the Republican party became divided, on the line which has constituted the underlying basis of separation in all our political history, into "strict," and "loose constructionists" of the powers of Federal government. The former finally adopted the party name Democratic, which at first had been directed at them as a reproach and which for many years had been used in qualification of, and later still interchangeably with their chosen name Republican. There was, however, but little change of principles, except, as before stated, by gradual political evolution as affected by the antagonism of the Federalists, their own ripened experience in administration and the beneficial influence of increased confidence in the good working qualities of the Constitution as established and amended. The election of Jackson was regarded as a triumph of the people over the political leaders, who were held to have proved recreant to their trust in the previous election. His military successes, years before, had made him the idol of the people who looked upon him as one of themselves, and had a well-founded confidence in his sincerity as well as his instinctive sympathy with their wants and wishes. His views, as indicated by his inaugural, did not differ essentially from those of his more immediate predecessors. He promised "to take care not to confound the reserved powers of the separate States with those which they had granted to the Confederacy;" to recognize the constitutional limits as well as extent of his official powers—affirming in that connection that "the recent demonstration of public sentiment [at the late election] inscribes on the list of executive duties, in characters too legible to be overlooked, the task of Reform"—to improve the finances ; to correct abuses ; to strengthen the militia ; and to cultivate friendly relations with foreign nations. In his first message he indicated a preference for electing the president and vice-president by direct vote of the people. "It was never designed," he said, "that their choice should in any case be defeated, either by the intervention of electoral colleges, or by the agency confided under certain contingencies to the House of Representatives. Experience proves that in proportion as agents to secure the will of the people are multiplied, there is danger of their wishes being frustrated. Some may be unfaithful. All are liable to err. So far, therefore, as the people can with convenience speak. it is safer for them to express their own will." With characteristic directness he removed officials for differing with him in political opinion, and he is held responsible for the introduction into American politics of the spoils' system. "During the first year of his administration there were nearly seven hundred removals from office, not including subordinate clerks. During the forty years preceding there had been but sixty-four." He had forcibly deprecated such removals a few years before, and it is only fair to assume that his change of views was due to what he deemed a political necessity. He was, he said, "too old a soldier to leave his garrison in the hands of his enemies."

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN;
Electoral vote, 83;

John Q. Adams, candidate.

The "loose-constructionist" wing of the late Republican party assumed the name of National Republicans, the qualifying adjective helping to appropriately designate the inheritance from the disbanded Federalists of the principle which might be described as the Nation above the States. They also favored a protective tariff while their opponents represented substantially a tariff for revenue only. In the matter of internal improvements at national expense they also favored a broader sweep of the principle involved than did the Democrats who had adopted it as it were under protest, and to be exercised only with great discretion as an implied consequence of the military, commercial or other power of the Federal government.

The Nullification Faction in South Carolina assumed form by an act of the State legislature, in November, 1832, nullifying the Tariff Act of Congress, as unconstitutional, to which President Jackson promptly replied by sending troops and issuing a proclamation, saying, among other things, "If South Carolina considers the revenue laws unconstitutional, and has a right to prevent their execution in the port of Charleston, there would be a clear constitutional objection to their collection in every other port, and no revenue could be collected anywhere ; for all imports must be equal."

"The people of the United States," said Jackson, in his Nullification Proclamation of 1832, "formed the Constitution, acting through the State Legislatures in making the compact, to meet and discuss its provisions, and acting in separate conventions when they ratified those provisions ; but the terms used in the Constitution show it to be a government in which the people of all the States collectively are represented. We are one people in the choice of President and Vice-president. Here the States have no other agency than to direct the mode in which the votes shall be given . . . . The people then, and not the States, are represented in the executive branch. . . . In the House of Representatives, the members are all representatives of the United States, not representatives of the particular States from which they come. They are paid by the United States, not by the State, nor are they accountable to it for any act done in the performance of their legislative functions.

"The Constitution of the United States, then, forms a government, not a league; and whether it be formed by compact between the States, or in any other manner, its character is the same. It is a government in which all the people are represented, which operates directly on the people individually, not upon the States. They retained all the power they did not grant; but each State having expressly parted with so many powers as to constitute, jointly with the other States, a single nation, cannot from that period possess any right to secede, because such secession does not break a league, but destroys the unity of the nation, and any injury to that unity is not only a breach which could result from the contravention of a compact, but is an offense against the whole Union. To say that any State may at pleasure secede from the Union, is to say that the United States are not a nation, because it would be a solecism to contend that any part of a nation might dissolve its connection with the other parts, to their injury or ruin, without committing an offense. Secession, like any other revolutionary act, may be morally justified by the extremity of oppression; but to call it a constitutional right is confounding the meaning of terms."

"That the indiscriminate removal of public officers for a mere difference of political opinion, is gross abuse of power; and that the doctrine lately boldly preached in the United States Senate, that 'to the victors belong the spoils of the vanquished,' is detrimental to the interests, corrupting to the morals, and dangerous to the liberties of the country."—By Ratification Meeting at Washington, May 11, 1832.

The strongest expression of Democratic principles, in the campaign of 1836, was made by the New York Democrats, locally known as the 'Equal Rights," and nick-named the "Locofoco" party, as follows:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: that the true foundation of republican government is the equal rights of every citizen in his person and property, and in their management; that the idea is quite unfounded that on entering into society we give up our natural rights; that the rightful power of all legislation is to declare and enforce only our natural rights and duties, and to take none of them from us; that no man has the natural right to commit aggressions on the equal rights of another, and this is all from which the law ought to restrain him; that every man is under the natural duty of contributing to the necessities of society, and this is all the law should enforce on him; that when the laws have declared and enforced all this, they have fulfilled their functions.

"We declare unqualified hostility to bank notes and paper money as a circulating medium, because gold and silver is the only safe and constitutional currency; hostility to all monopolies by legislation, because they are violations of equal rights of the people; hostility to the dangerous and unconstitutional creation of vested rights or prerogatives by legislation, because they are usurpations of the people's sovereign rights; no legislative or other authority in the body politic can rightfully, by charter or otherwise, exempt any man or body of men, in any case whatever, from trial by jury and the jurisdiction or operation of the laws which govern the community.

"We hold that each and every law or act of incorporation, passed by preceding legislatures, can be rightfully altered and repealed by their successors; and that they should be altered or repealed when necessary for the public good, or when required by a majority of the people."

From Van Buren's Inaugural:—"A strict adherence to the letter and spirit of the Constitution. . . . . . Looking back to it as a sacred instrument, ... remembering that it was throughout a work of concession and compromise; viewing it as limited to national objects; regarding it as leaving to the people and the States all power not explicitly parted with, I shall endeavor to preserve, protect and defend it, by anxiously referring to its provisions for direction in every action. To matters of domestic concernment which it has intrusted to the Federal government, and to such as relate to our intercourse with foreign nations, I shall zealously devote myself; beyond those limits I shall never pass."

Hugh L. White, candidate of the Anti-Van Buren section of Democrats, received the thirty-six electoral votes of Georgia and Tennessee.

William Henry Harrison, candidate.

The name Whig was adopted by the National Republicans probably as indicative of their contest with the national executive. As the English Whigs had declared that the power of the throne "had increased, was increasing and ought to be diminished," so the new American Whigs protested against the alleged arbitrary assumption of power by the president.

Whig Resolutions of 1836: "1. That in support of our cause, we invite all citizens opposed to Martin Van Buren and the Baltimore nominees. 2. That Martin Van Buren, by intriguing with the executive to obtain his influence to elect him to the presidency, has set an example dangerous to our freedom and corrupting to our free institutions. 3. That the support we render to Wm. Henry Harrison is by no means given to him solely on account of his brilliant and successful services as leader of our armies during the last war, but that in him we view also the man of high intellect, the stern patriot, uncontaminated by the machinery of hackneyed [nominee for vice-president] politicians—a man of the school of Washington. 4. That in Francis Granger we recognize one of our most distinguished fellow-citizens, whose talents we admire, whose patriotism we trust, and whose principles we sanction."

Daniel Webster, also a Whig, received the fourteen electoral votes of Massachusetts.

John Tyler, vice-president, succeed to the presidency on the death of Harrison, April 4, 1841.

The Whigs issued no platform of principles, the campaign being conducted as a purely aggressive one, with "resistance to usurpation, misrule and despotism," as a battle-cry. Besides their attacks on President Van Buren's policy, his errors of commission and omission, they fiercely combated the claim to re-election of "a Northern man with Southern principles."

By some of his adversaries he was very unreasonably held responsible for the financial panic and commercial depression which marked the period of his administration, and the discouragement of the people from that cause was not without its influence in producing a change.

The principles of the party may be gathered from the Whig resolutionss of 1836, and the following statement of views by Henry Clay in 1842: "A sound national currency, regulated by the will and authority of the nation. An adequate revenue, with fair protection to American industry. Just restraints on the executive power, embracing a further restriction on the exercise of the veto. A faithful administration of the public domain, with an equitable distribution of the proceeds of sales of it among all the States."

"The Whig Party comprised," says Greeley: "1. Most of those who, under the name of National Republicans, had previously been known as supporters of Adams and Clay, and the advocates of the 'American System.' 2. Most of those who . . . . had been stigmatized as Nullifiers or the less virulent State-rights men. . . . 3. A majority of those known before as Anti-Masons. 4. Many who up to that time [1834] had been known as Jackson men, but who united in condemning the high-handed conduct of the Executive. . . . 5. Numbers who had not before taken any part in politics, but who were now awakened from their apathy by the palpable usurpations of the Executive."

The Federal government is one of limited powers and subject to strict construction; it is inexpedient and dangerous to exercise doubtful constitutional powers. 2. Internal improvements on a general scale, and (3) Federal assumption of State debts contracted for such purposes unconstitutional, and neither just nor expedient. 4. Justice and sound policy forbid the fostering of one branch of industry to the detriment of another. 5. Rigid economy the duty of the government, and revenue should be raised only for necessary expenses. 6. Congress has no power to charter a United States bank—an institution of deadly hostility to the best interests of the country, placing business within the control of a concentrated money power. 7. Congress has no power to interfere with or control the domestic institutions [slavery] of the States; and the efforts of Abolitionists endanger the stability of the Union. 8. Platform of 1848.—An eloquent and impassioned appeal, in a three-fold preamble and sixteen resolutions, against the extension of slavery, from which the following are brief extracts: "A common resolve to maintain the rights of free labor against the aggressions of the slave power, and to secure free soil to a free people." "We propose no interference by Congress with slavery within the limits of any State." "It was the settled policy of the nation [from 1784 to 1800] not to extend, nationalize or encourage . . . . slavery, and to this policy . . . . the government ought to return." "Congress has no more power to make a slave than to make a king." "The only safe means of preventing the extension of slavery into territory now free, is to prevent its extension into such territory by an act of Congress." "We accept the issue which the slave power has forced upon us; and to their demand for more slave States and more slave territory, our calm but final answer is, no more slave States and no more slave territory." "There must be no more compromises with slavery; if made, they must be repealed." "We demand cheap postage for the people." "River and harbor improvements . . . . are objects of national concern." "The free grant to actual settlers . . . . of reasonable portions of the public lands, under suitable limitations, is a wise and just measure of public policy." "Honor and patriotism require the earliest practical payment of the public debt." "We inscribe on our banner, 'Free Soil, Free Speech, Free Labor and Free Men,' and under it we will fight on, and fight ever, until a triumphant victory shall reward our exertions."

LIBERTY LEAGUE;

Platform of 1852 was mainly composed of planks borrowed from the platforms of 1840, 1844 and 1848, with these additions: "The Democratic party of the Union, standing on this national platform, will abide by, and adhere to a faithful execution of the acts known as the Compromise measures settled by last Congress, 'the act for reclaiming fugitives from service labor,' included." "The Democratic party will resist all attempts at renewing in Congress, or out of it, the agitation of the slavery question, under whatever shape or color the attempt may be made." "The Democratic party will faithfully abide by and uphold the principles laid down in the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions of 1792 and 1798, and in the report of Mr. Madison to the Virginia legislature in 1799." "The war with Mexico, upon all the principles of patriotism and the law of nations, was a just and necessary war on our part, in which no American citizen should have shown himself opposed to his country." "We rejoice at the restoration of friendly relations with our sister republic of Mexico, and earnestly desire for her all the blessings and prosperity which we enjoy under republican institutions, and we congratulate the American people on the results of that war, which have so manifestly justified the policy and conduct of the Democratic party, and insured to the United States indemnity for the past and security for the future."

"In view of the condition of popular institutions in the old world, a high and sacred duty is devolved with increased responsibility upon the Democracy of this country, as the party of the people, to uphold and maintain the rights of every State, and thereby the union of States, and to sustain and advance among them constitutional liberty, by continuing to resist all monopolies and exclusive legislation for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, and by a vigilant and constant adherence to those principles and compromises of the Constitution, which are broad enough and strong enough to embrace and uphold the Union as it is, and the Union as it should be, in the full expansion of the energies and capacity of this great and progressive people."

"No party can justly be deemed national, constitutional, or in accordance with American principles, which bases its exclusive organization upon religious opinions and accidental birthplace." "We reiterate with renewed energy of purpose the well-considered declarations of former conventions upon the sectional issue of domestic slavery, and concerning the reserved rights of the States." "Claiming fellowship with, and desiring the co-operation of all who regard the preservation of the Union under the Constitution as a paramount issue, and repudiating all sectional parties and platforms concerning domestic slavery which seek to embroil the States and incite to treason and armed resistance to law in the territories, and whose avowed purpose, if consummated, must end in civil war and disunion, the American democracy recognize and adopt the principles contained in the organic laws establishing the Territories of Nebraska and Kansas, as embodying the only sound and safe solution of the slavery question." "There are questions connected with the foreign policy of this country which are inferior to no domestic questions whatever." "The time has come for the people of the United States to declare themselves in favor of free seas and progressive free trade throughout the world." "We should hold sacred the principles of the Monroe doctrine." "The Democratic party will expect of the next administration that every proper effort be made to insure our ascendency in the Gulf of Mexico." The Federal Constitution, the rights of the States, and the union of the States must and shall be preserved. That to the union of the States this nation owes its unprecedented increase in population, its surprising development of material resources, its rapid augmentation of wealth, its happiness at home and its honor abroad; and we hold in abhorrence all schemes for disunion. . . . . and we denounce those threats of disunion . . . . That the maintenance inviolate of the rights of the States . . . . is essential to that balance of powers on which the perfection and endurance of our political fabric depends. . . . . That the present Democratic administration has far exceeded our worst apprehensions, in its measureless subserviency to the exactions of a sectional interest. . . . .That a return to rigid economy and accountability is indispensable to arrest the systematic plunder of the public treasury by favored partisans. . . . . That the new dogma, that the Constitution, of its own force, carries slavery into any or all of the Territories of the United States, is a dangerous political heresy, at variance with the explicit provisions of that instrument. . . . is revolutionary in its tendency, and subversive of the peace and harmony of the country. That the normal condition of all the territory of the United States is that of freedom . . . and we deny the authority of Congress, [etc. as in 1856]. That we brand the recent re-opening of the African slave trade, under the cover of our national flag . . . as a crime against humanity and a burning shame to our country and age . . . In the recent vetoes, by their Federal governors, of the acts of the legislatures of Kansas and Nebraska prohibiting slavery in those Territories, we find a practical illustration of the boasted Democratic principle of non-intervention and popular sovereignty, embodied in the Kansas-Nebraska bill, and a demonstration of the deception and frauds involved therein. That Kansas should, of right, be immediately admitted as a State under the constitution recently formed . . . . sound policy requires such an adjustment of imposts as to encourage the development of the industrial interest of the whole country. . . . . We protest . . . . against any view of the homestead policy which regards the settlers as paupers or suppliants for public bounty. . . . The Republican party is opposed to any change in our naturalization laws . . . . River and harbor improvements . . . . are authorized by the Constitution. . . . A railroad to the Pacific ocean is imperatively demanded. . . . We invite the co-operation of all citizens. . . . who substantially agree with us . . . ."

Platform—That of 1856 re-affirmed with these additions: "All citizens have an equal right to settle with their property [slaves included] in any Territory. It is the duty of the Federal government . . . . to protect, when necessary, the rights of persons and property in the Territories. . . . When the settlers in a Territory having an adequate population form a State constitution in pursuance of law, the right of sovereignty commences . . . and the State thus organized ought to be admitted into the Federal Union, whether its constitution prohibits or recognizes the institution of slavery. . . . In favor of the acquisition of Cuba on such terms as shall be honorable. . . . .Enactments. . . .to defeat. . . . .Fugitive Slave Law. . . . .are. . . . revolutionary in their effect. . . . Imperative duty of this government to protect the naturalized citizen in all his rights, whether at home or in foreign lands, to the same extent as its native-born citizens. . . . Andrew Johnson, elected Vice-President, succeeded to the Presidency upon the death of Lincoln, April 15, 1865.

Platform.—"Resolved, That it is the highest duty of every American citizen to maintain, against all their enemies, the integrity of the Union and the paramount authority of the Constitution . . . . and . . . . we pledge ourselves . . . . to do everything in our power to aid the government in quelling, by force of arms, the Rebellion now raging against its authority, and in bringing to the punishment due to their crimes the rebels and traitors arrayed against it. . . . . We approve the determination of the government . . . . not to compromise with rebels, nor to offer them any terms of peace, except such as may be based upon an 'unconditional surrender' of their hostility . . . . and to prosecute the war with the utmost possible vigor to the complete suppression of the Rebellion. . . . . As slavery was the cause, and now constitutes the strength of this Rebellion, ... we uphold and maintain the acts and proclamations by which the government, in its own defense, has aimed a death-blow at the gigantic evil. . . . . . That the thanks of the American people are due to the soldiers and sailors; . . . . that the nation owes to them some permanent recognition. . . . . That we approve and applaud the practical wisdom . . . . with which Abraham Lincoln has discharged, under circumstances of unparalleled difficulty, the great duties and responsibilities of the presidential office. . . . . We deem it essential to the general welfare that harmony should prevail in the national councils, and we regard as worthy of public confidence and official trust those only who cordially indorse the principles proclaimed in these resolutions. . . . . The government owes to all men employed in its armies, without regard to distinction of color, the full protection of the laws of war. . . . . . That foreign immigration . . . . should be fostered and encouraged by a liberal and just policy. That we are in favor of the speedy construction of the railroad to the Pacific coast. That the national faith, pledged for the redemption of the public debt, must be kept inviolate. . . . . That we approve the position taken by the government, that the people of the United States can never regard with indifference the attempt of any European power to overthrow by force, or to supplant by fraud, the institutions of any republican government on the western continent. . . . ."

RADICAL;

John C. Fremont, candidate, Who withdrew and recommended the support of the regular Republican ticket, which recommendation was followed.

Platform—"The Federal Union shall be prese rved. . . . . The Constitution and laws . . . . must be observed. . . . . . The Rebellion must be suppressed . . . . and without compromise. . . . . . The rights of free speech, free press, and the habeas corpus be held inviolate, save in districts where martial law has been proclaimed. . . . . The Rebellion has destroyed slavery; and the Federal Constitution should be amended [accordingly]. . . . . Integrity and economy . . . . in the administration . . . . in time of war, the want of them is criminal. . . . . . The right of asylum . . . . . is a recognized principle of American liberty. . . . The 'Monroe Doctrine' [also] . . . . . The gratitude and support of the nation are due to the faithful soldiers. . . . . . The one-term policy for the presidency . . . . should be maintained by Constitutional amendment. . . . . . The President and Vice-President shall be elected by a direct vote of the people. . . . . . Reconstruction of the rebellious States belongs to the people, through their representatives in Congress, and not to the Executive. Platform.—"Resolved, That in the future, as in the past, we will adhere with unswerving fidelity to the Union under the Constitution. . . . . That after four years of failure to restore the Union by the experiment of war, during which, under the pretense of a military necessity of a war power higher than the Constitution, the Constitution itself has been disregarded in every part; . . . . justice, humanity, liberty, and the public welfare demand that immediate efforts be made for a cessation of hostilities, with a view to an ultimate convention of all the States; . . . . . that . . . . . peace may be restored on the basis of the Federal Union of all the States. That the direct interference of the military authority . . . . in the recent elections . . . . was a shameful violation of the Constitution; and the repetition of such acts . . . . will be held as revolutionary, and resisted. . . . . . That the aim and object of the Democratic party is to preserve the Federal Union and the rights of the States unimpaired; . . . . and they hereby declare that they consider the administrative usurpations of extraordinary and dangerous powers not granted by the Constitution . . . . as calculated to prevent a restoration of the Union. . . . . Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy of 11 seceded States.
The Right of Secession formally assumed, December 20, 1860: "We, the people of South Carolina, in convention assembled, do declare and ordain . . . . that South Carolina, in the exercise of her sovereign will as an independent State, acceded to the Federal Union [May 23, 1788] . . . . and that, in the exercise of the same sovereign will, it is her right . . . . to secede from the said Federal Union."

The other seceding States took the same ground.

"Our new government," said Alex. H. Stephens, March 21, 1861, "is founded upon exactly the opposite idea [to the equality of races]; its foundations are laid, its cornerstone rests upon the great truth that the negro is not equal to the white man; that slavery—subordination to the superior race—is his natural and normal condition. . . . . The negro, by nature, or by the curse against Canaan, is fitted for that condition which he occupies in our system, ... and by experience we know that it is best, not only for the superior but for the inferior race, that it should be so. It is, indeed, in conformity with the ordinance of the Creator."

Platform.—"When in the economy of Providence, this land was to be purged of human slavery, and when the strength of the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, was to be demonstrated, the Republican party came into power. Its deeds have passed into history, and we look back to them with pride. Incited by their memories to high aims for the good of our country and mankind, and looking to the future with unfaltering courage, hope and purpose, we, the representatives of the party. . . . make the following declaration of principles: The United States is a nation, not a league . . . The Republican party has preserved these governments [National and State] to the 100th anniversary of the nation's birth . . . The permanent pacification of the southern section of the Union, and the complete protection of all its citizens in the free enjoyment of all their rights, is a duty to which the Republican party stands sacredly pledged . . . National credit demands that this promise [redemption of the United States notes in coin] be fulfilled by a continuous and steady progress to specie payment. . . The invariable rule in appointments should have reference to the honesty, fidelity and capacity of the appointees . . . All others [subordinate places] to be filled by persons selected with sole reference to the efficiency of the public service. . . Will hold all public officers to a rigid responsibility . . . The public school system . . . is the bulwark of the American Republic . . . The revenue . . . must be largely derived from duties . . . . which . . . . should be adjusted to promote interests of American labor and advance the prosperity of the whole country. We re-affirm our opposition to further grants of the public lands to corporations and monopolies . . . The same protection shall be afforded to the adopted American citizen that is given to the native-born . . . Duty of Congress to fully investigate the effect of the immigration and importation of Mongolians upon the moral and material interests of the country . . . The honest demands of women for additional rights, privileges, and immunities, should be treated with respectful consideration . . . It is the right and duty of Congress to prohibit and extirpate in the Territories that relic of barbarism, polygamy . . . The pledges which the nation has given to her soldiers and sailors must be fulfilled . . . We sincerely deprecate all sectional feeling and tendencies. We therefore note with deep solicitude that the Democratic party counts . . . upon the electoral vote of a united South . . . Platform.—"We . . . . do hereby declare the administration of the Federal government to be in urgent need of immediate reform . . . We do here re-affirm our faith in the permanence of the Federal Union, our devotion to the Constitution . . . with its amendments universally accepted as a final settlement of the controversies engendered by the Civil War . . . In absolute acquiesence in the will of the majority—the vital principle of republics; in the supremacy of the civil over the military authority; in the total separation of Church and State, for the sake alike of civil and religious freedom; in the equality of all citizens before just laws of their own enactment; in the liberty of individual conduct, unvexed by sumptuary laws; in the faithful education of the rising generation, that they may preserve, enjoy, and transmit these best conditions of human happiness and hope—we behold the noblest products of a hundred years of changeful history; but while upholding the bond of our Union and great charter of these our rights, it behooves a free people to practice also that eternal vigilance which is the price of liberty . . . Reform is necessary to . . . establish, in the hearts of the whole people, the Union . . . now to be saved from a corrupt centralism . . . To establish a sound currency, restore the public credit, and maintain the national honor. We denounce the failure, for all these eleven years of peace, to make good the promise of the legal-tender notes . . . and the improvidence which . . . has taken . . . in Federal taxes thirteen times the whole amount of the legal-tender notes, and squandered four times their sum . . . The financial imbecility . . . which . . . has made no advance toward Resumption . . . We demand a judicious system of preparation [for resumption] . . . Reform is necessary in the sum and modes of Federal taxation . . . We denounce the present tariff, levied upon nearly 4 000 articles, as a masterpiece of injustice, inequality and false pretence . . . Reform is necessary in the scale of public expense . . . To put a stop to the profligate waste of public lands . . . To correct the omission of a Republican Congress, and the errors of our treaties . . . which have stripped our fellow citizens of foreigh birth . . . of the shield of American citizenship . . . and demand such modifications of the treaty with the Chinese Empire . . . as shall prevent further importation . . . of the Mongolian race . . . [As to] the false issue with which they [the Republicans] would enkindle sectarian strife in respect to the public schools . . . [And] light anew the dying embers of sectional hate . . . In the civil service . . . Even more, in the higher grades of the public service, President, [&c] . . . these and all others in authority are the people's servants . . . All these abuses, wrongs and crimes, the product of sixteen years' ascendency of the Republican party, create a necessity for reform, confessed by the Republicans themselves . . . Reform can only be had by a peaceful civic revolution . . . Do cordially indorse the action of the present House . . . in reducing . . . the expenses of the Federal government . . . NOTES.

For the method of electing president and vice-president until 1804, see Constitution, Art. II. Sec. 1.

At the election of 1789, New York had not passed an electoral law: North Carolina and Rhode Island had not ratified the Constitution. The three were entitled to eighteen votes, which would have made the total electoral vote 91, as provided by the Constitution itself. There were two vacancies in each of the electoral colleges of Maryland and Virginia, making, "not cast, 4."

March 1, 1792, Congress enacted that the presidential electors of each State should meet at the place designated by the Legislature on the first Wednesday in December, and make three copies of the votes cast by them, one to be sent by special messenger to the president of the U. S. Senate, another by mail to the same, and the third to be deposited in the archives of the U. S. district court having jurisdiction over the place of meeting. These certified electoral votes of all the States to be opened before both houses of Congress on the second Wednesday in February and counted by the president of the Senate, and the result officially declared by him.

In the election of 1792, Vermont, admitted March 4, 1791, and Kentucky, June 1, 1792, with the original thirteen (all of which had previously ratified the Constitution) made the "States voting 15." The apportionment act of 1792, based on the census of 1790, and fixing the rate of representation in Congress as one to 33,000 of population, had raised the membership of that body to 105, and, with the 30 Senators—two for each of the 15 States—made the "total electoral vote, 135." Maryland had two vacancies and Vermont one, making "not cast, 3."

In the election of 1796, Tennessee, admitted June 1, 1796, the 16th State, with one representative and two senators—three votes—made "total electoral vote, 138." By the method of election then prevailing, Jefferson, though the leader of the opposition, became vice-president; and President Adams and he got 139 votes, with a "total electoral vote, 138." In fact, the electoral vote was twice that number for both offices, and the remaining 137 were divided among eleven other persons.

In the election of 1800, Jefferson and Burr having each received the 73 electoral votes of the Republican party, the election devolved on the House of Representatives, where it took 6 days and 36 ballots to elect Jefferson. This led to the enactment in 1803, and ratification 1804, of the Twelfth Amendment, requiring the electors to "name in their ballots the person voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as vice-president.

In the electon of 1804, Ohio, admitted November 29, 1802, the 17th State, added three electoral votes to the 173 to which the other 16 States were entitled by the census of 1800. The ratio of representation remained unchanged at 33,000, but the membership of the House was raised from 105 to 141, owing to the increase in population. Fifteen States gave their electoral vote to Jefferson, except two of Maryland's, which with the nine of Connecticut and the three of Delaware were given to Pinckney.

In the election of 1808, one of Kentucky's constituted the "not cast, 1." Of the 128 Republican electoral votes, Madison received 122, and Clinton 6, of New York's 19.

In the election of 1812, Louisiana, admitted April 8, 1812, the 18th State, added three electoral votes to the 215 to which the other 17 States became entitled by the census of 1810, on the new ratio of one representative to 35,000 of population, which had raised the membership of the House to 181. One of Ohio's was the vote "not cast, 1."

In the election of 1816, Indiana, admitted December 11, 1816, the 19th State, added three electoral votes, making the "total electoral vote 221." Three of Maryland's and one of Delaware's made the votes "not cast, 4."

In the election of 1820, Mississippi, admitted December 10, 1817; Illinois, December 3, 1818; Alabama, December 14, 1819; Missouri, March 2, 1820 (though not finally, by proclamation of president, until August 10, 1821), each with three votes; and Maine, March 15, 1820, with 9, of which 7 were taken from Massachusetts, added 14 votes, making the "total electoral vote 235." One each of Mississippi, Pennsylvania and Tennessee, made the votes "not cast, 3."

February 27, 1821, after a political struggle of two years, Congress passed an act admitting Missouri as a slave State, but forbidding the extension of slavery north of latitude 36 deg. 30 min. This arrangement between the conflicting sections, North and South, on the slavery question, is known as the Missouri Compromise.

The apportionment act of 1823, based on the census of 1820, and fixing the ratio as 1 to 40,000, raised the membership of the House to 213, making the "total electoral vote 261."

In the election of 1824, presidential electors were elected by the people in all the States (until then they had been chosen by the legislatures) except Del., Ga., La., N. Y., S. C. and Vt.

In the election of 1828, the popular vote system of choosing presidential electors was used by all the States except South Carolina, which did not adopt it until 1868. In the campaign of 1828, the party names of Democratic and National Republican were formally adopted, though in use for some years, to distinguish the diverging sections into which the old Republican party had divided. They broadly designated the surviving issue between "strict," and "loose constructionist" of the Constitution, with other points of difference as noted in the text.

In the election of 1832, the ratio of representation of 1 to 47,700, based on the census of 1830, had raised the membership of the House to 240, making the "total electoral vote, 288." Two of Maryland's made the votes "not cast, 2."

Of the 230 Democratic electoral votes, Jackson received 219, and Floyd the 11 ("Anti-Jackson") of South Carolina, which then had no popular vote.

The American Anti-Slavery Society, permanently estabilshed on an enduring basis in 1833, having succeeded several temporary and local associations in the same line of thought and endeavor, though not a political organization, exercised a potent influence on the destinies of parties for a period of thirty years, until the abolition of slavery, January 1, 1863.

Platform:—"Whereas, slavery is contrary to the principles of natural justice, of our republican form of government and of the Christian religion, and is destructive of the prosperity of the country, while it is endangering the peace, union and liberties of the States; and, whereas, we believe in the duty and interest of the masters immediately to emancipate their slaves, ... we do hereby agree to form ourselves into a Society .... The object of this Society is the abolton of slavery in the United States .... it shall aim to elevate the character and condition of the people of color .... but will never, in any way, countenance the oppressed in vindicating their rights by resorting to physical force .... The right to enjoy liberty is inalienable .... It is piracy to buy or steal a native African .... Surely the sin is as great to enslave an American .... The measures of the Society shall be such only as the opposition of moral purity to moral corruption; the destruction of error by the potency of truth; the overthrow of prejudice by the power of love; and the abolition of slavery by the spirit of repentance."

The Anti-Masonic party was based upon the alleged murder by the Masons of Wm. Morgan, for exposing the secrets of the order, and upon the supposed subordination by them of their duties as citizens to their obligations as Masons.

In the election of 1836, Arkansas, admitted June 15, 1836, and Michigan, January 26, 1837, each with three votes, made the "total electoral vote, 294." Michigan's vote would most probably have been questioned had it affected the result, as she had not fully complied with the requirements for admission at the time of counting the electoral vote.

The vice-president, R. M. Johnson, was elected by the Senate, he having received only 147 electoral votes, not a majority—only half—of the 294 cast.

The electoral and popular votes designated as Democratic and Whig, more strictly denote, respectively, Van Buren Democrats and opponents of Van Buren, both Democrats and Whigs.

January 23, 1845, Congress enacted that the presidential election, or more strictly the election of presidential electors, should take place in all the States on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November of the presidential or fourth year.

In the election of 1844, the ratio of representation of 1 to 70,680, based on the census of 1840, reduced the membership of the House to 223, making the "total electoral vote 275."

In the election of 1848, Florida, admitted March 3, 1845, Texas, December 20, 1845; Iowa, December 28, 1846, and Wisconsin, May 29, 1848—the first with three and the others with four each—made the "total electoral vote, 290."

Platform of the Liberty League—or extreme wing of the Liberty party: "That the Federal government possesses the constitutional power to abolish slavery not only in the District of Columbia and the Territories, but in the States, also, and that it ought to exercise that power."

In 1846, the political nicknames of Hunkers and Barnburners were used to designate two sections of the Democratic party. The former were the conservative, or "old fogy" division, while the latter were the progressive, anti-slavery section.

John P. Hale, the candidate of the Free Democracy in 1852, had been nominated by the Liberty party in 1847, but withdrew in 1848 in favor of the nominee of the Free Soil party of that year.

In the election of 1852, California, admitted Sept. 9, 1850, the 31st State—as part of the compromise measure of that year, between the North and the South on the slavery question, and known as the Omnibus bill—and the apportionment act of 1852, of 1 to 92,423, based on the census of 1850, raised the membership of the House, including two from California, to 234, and made the "total electoral vote, 296."

Resolved by Congress in 1852: "That the series of acts passed during the first session of the 31st Congress [the Omnibus bill], known as compromises, are regarded as a final adjustment and a permanent settlement of the questions therein embraced, and should be maintained and executed as such!" Like the Missouri Compromise of thirty years before, it tried to establish irreconcilable principles, Liberty and Slavery, in one body politic.

In 1854, the Kansas-Nebraska bill of Stephen A. Douglas re-opened the whole question and virtually nullified both Compromises by permitting the inhabitants of the two new Territories contemplated, to adopt or reject slavery within their borders. It became a law May 31, 1854. This led to the civil war and political conflict in Kansas, 1854 to 1857.

In the election of 1856, no new State having been admitted, and there having been no new apportionment since 1852, the "total electoral vote, 296," remained unchanged.

The Dred Scott Decision, March 6, 1857, that a person whose "ancestors had been been imported into this country and held as slaves," had no right to sue in U. S. courts, virtually declared that slavery was a national institution.

In October, 1859, the slavery agitation received fresh impetus from "John Brown's raid,"—"an insurrection had broken out at Harper's Ferry, where an armed force of Abolitionists had full possession of the government arsenal."

In the election of 1860, Minnesota, admitted May 11, 1858, with four votes, and Oregon, February 12, 1859, with three, made the "total electoral vote, 303."

In the election of 1864, Kansas, admitted January 29, 1861, with three votes, West Virginia, December 31, 1862, with five votes (of which all but the two senatorial were taken from Virginia), and Nevada, October 31, 1864, respectively, the 34th, 35th and 36th States, together with the apportionment based on the census of 1860, and raising the membership of the House to 242, made the "total electoral vote, 314."

In the election of 1868, Nebraska, admitted February 9, 1867, the 37th State, with three votes, made the "total electoral vote, 317."

In the election of 1872, the apportionment act—ratio, 1 to 131,425—based on the census of 1870, raised the membership of the House to 292, and made the "total electoral vote, 366."

Six States—Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Tennessee and Texas, having 66 electoral votes, elected Greeley electors, but Mr. Greeley dying November 29, only three were cast for him, and of the remainder, 42 were cast for Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, 18 for B. Gratz Brown, of Mo., 2 for Chas. J. Jenkins, of Ga., and 1 for David Davis, of Ill. From Arkansas and Louisiana, two sets of electors obtained contested certificates. The former was entitled to 6, and the latter to 8 electoral votes. These 14 and the 3 cast for the deceased Mr. Greeley were rejected by Congress, making, "not cast, 17."

Colorado, admitted Aug. 1, 1876, the 38th State, raised the electoral vote to 369.

Florida, Oregon and South Carolina, returned each two lists of electors, and Louisiana three. By an act approved Jan. 29, 1877, an Electoral Commission of fifteen members—five Justices of Supreme Court, five Senators, and five Representatives—was instituted to count the votes for the presidency. By a vote of 8 to 7 they counted the four disputed States above mentioned for the Republican candidate, R. B. Hayes, who was declared president.

In 1880 a "National Liberty" convention adopted the following platform: briefly stated, 1 Taxation of Church property; 2. Abolition of Sabbath laws and government chaplaincies; 3, Secularization of public school education; 4, Refusal of appropriations for religious purposes.

The National Christain, or Anti-Secret Society party, also held a convention, issued a platform in which the chief plank was opposition to all oath-bound secret societies, and nominated as presidential candidate, J W. Phelps.

The apportionment act of 1883—ratio, 1 to 151,192—based on the census of 1880, raised the membership of the House to 325, making the "total electoral vote, 401."

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF TOWNS AND COUNTIES.

The following is an alphabetical list by states of every county, city, town, village and post-office in the United States, with their population, using the census of 1880 a basis, except in cases where later reports of a reliable character show a decided gain. Places whose population is not ascertainable are marked thus—×. State capitals are in c thus—BOSTON. County towns are in full-faced type, thus—Buffalo. Post-offices are in Roman, thus—Hinsdale. Places not post-offices are in italics, thus—Ashby. Express offices indicated thus—●. The index letters refer to that portion of the state in which the several counties are located, as follows—

N................Northern | E................Eastern | N.E..........North-Eastern | N.W.........North-Western
S................Southern | W................Western | S.E..........South-Eastern | S.W.........South-Western
C................Central.

To find any place, first find the county in which it is situated, using the index letters to ascertain its location. The county name being large is quickly seen, and the tow will be readily found within its boundaries if on the map. Many small places have been left off the maps owing to lack of space to engrave them, but they will all be found in list, and their locations can be easily determined by means of the index letters.
